FINN, RED PEACE PACT NEAR; ALLIES MAKE 'FULL AID' OFFER

AREA TRAFFIC FOR WEEK-END TAKES 2 LIVES

Passenger Hurt in Crash Near Mansfield Saturday Dies; Ashland Woman Dead.

STATE TOLL REACHES 19

Six Are Injured in Series of Minor Accidents in and Near Mansfield.

Two persons were killed and at least six others were injured in week-end traffic accidents in the Mansfield and Ashland areas, the heaviest toll in recent months.

The dead are Thomas Dugan, 33, of Philadelphia, Pa., who died early Sunday in the Mansfield General hospital, and Mrs. Ruth Sarkel, 36, of Ashland, who succumbed Sunday morning in Samaritan hospital, Ashland.

Dugan was fatally injured Saturday night when a light coupe in which he was riding skidded and turned over on route 42 three miles northeast of Mansfield. He was Richland county's second traffic victim of the year. Two had been killed at the same time last year. Dugan's body was taken to Ashland and then sent to Philadelphia for funeral services and burial.

This date last year—2

Ohio communities counted 19 persons dead in week-end traffic accidents. The toll, largest for any week-end since last summer, included six killed in Muskingum county east of Columbus, and two at Marion.

Merle E. Stark, 26, of Ashland, who suffered a broken back in the crash in which Dugan was fatally hurt, was reported in "fair condition" today at Mansfield General hospital.

Mrs. Sarkel, the Ashland county victim, formerly lived near Shelby. She suffered chest injuries and leg fractures about 2 a. m. Sunday when a car driv-

Check Suffocation Death of Student After Frat Hazing

COLUMBIA, Mo.—(U.P.)—University of Missouri authorities were expected to investigate today the death of Hubert L. Spake, jr., 21, who smothered to death in bed after his initiation into a fraternity.

As far as Spake's parents and the law were concerned, the case was closed. There will be no inquest.

"I have no vindictiveness in my heart over the death of my son. He's gone. I cannot find it in my heart to blame or condemn them for it," his father said. He is Hubert Lester Spake, sr., of Kansas City, Mo., assistant postoffice cashier.

Coroner W. R. Toalson said that his inquiry was closed. Dr. M. D. Neal said after an autopsy that there was no indication of foul play, that Spake had turned over on his face while he slept and suffocated. He had been painted with a red antiseptic, part of the initiation ceremony held at an undisclosed spot in the country, but there were no bruises on his body. It was not explained why he was unable to move after he had turned.

Compromise Reached In Dem Dispute

Sawyer Move Believed To Avert Farley Entry In Ohio Contest.

Settlement of a Democratic party factional dispute in Ohio today left only a remote chance that a state organization slate of national convention delegates—pledged to National Committeeman Charles Sawyer as "favorite son" presidential candidate—would be opposed in the May 14 primary.

Associated Press dispatches from Columbus today said that Sawyer had agreed to permit Ray T. Miller, Cuyahoga county chairman, to name all six delegates from three populous northern Ohio districts after Miller threatened to enter an opposition slate pledged to former U. S. Senator Robert J. Bulkley as a second "favorite son."

Informed sources, the dispatches said, predicted that Miller would select Francis W. Poulson, former state executive committee chairman, as a district delegate, thus ending Poulson's efforts to induce Postmaster James A. Farley to seek a part of Ohio's 52 convention votes.

However, a special dispatch from Washington to the News-Journal, written by Drew Pearson and Robert S. Allen who conduct "The Washington Merry-Go-Round" today predicted that Farley on March 14 would file a "Roosevelt slate" of his own in Ohio.

"Farley's slate nominally will also be for the President, but it will take orders from Jim and not from the White House," the dispatch said. "In other words, it will be anti-third term."

Pearson and Allen wrote that Farley publicly has ducked all questions on the issue.

"In entering the Ohio melee with a slate of his own, in direct opposition to a state organization which acted on secret White House instructions, he will not only declare himself but will openly throw down the gauntlet to his 'chief,'" they said.

Poulson had sought outside opposition to the organization delegate slate after Sawyer denied him a place among the 16 delegates-at-large.

Although he indicated that he would support Farley should the national Democratic chairman desire to enter the race, he said Miller's victory in his fight with Sawyer made it "unlikely that an opposition slate will be entered in Ohio."

SHIFTS DETOUR

State Sends 30N Traffic Over 30S to Ontario.

Acting on recommendations from city officials, the state highway department today had set up a new detour for traffic around the West Fourth street resurfacing project.

Through traffic on U. S. route 30N was being routed from Ashland road over U. S. route 30S to Ontario and then over a county road to U. S. route 30N, highway officials said.

Service-Safety Director C. M. Crafton said the change in the detour had been made in order to protect the city streets from heavy interstate truck traffic.

The detour previously sent traffic over West Fifth street, Western avenue and Heineman boulevard. Crafton said none of these streets was built to stand the heavy loads.

Male Nurse Admits He Killed Sweetheart With Hatchet.

NEW YORK—(AP)—A male nurse employed at Harlem hospital walked up to a policeman on Amsterdam avenue early today and told a story that led to the finding of the nude body of his blond sweetheart, Elaine Rossi, 23.

She had been slain with a hatchet.

The man, Louis Grondine, 46, was quoted by Capt. Conrad H. Rothengast as saying he killed the woman when she lunged at him with a knife during a quarrel

LUTZ GETS INTO CONGRESS RACE

Representative's First Dem. to Announce After Henkel Decides He Won't Run.

Changing his mind after Atty. C. H. Henkel of Mansfield decided not to run for congress, State Representative Ralph C. Lutz of Lexington today announced he will seek the Democratic congressional nomination in the 17th district.

Although Lutz had been considered a possible candidate, he said recently that he would seek re-election of the state legislature, leaving the congressional candidacy to Atty. Henkel, who announced Saturday, however, that he will not be a candidate.

Lutz is the first Democrat to announce for the regular term in congress for which party nominees will be chosen at the May 14 primary.

J. Harry McGregor of Coshocton county, a Republican, elected at the special election Feb. 27 to fill the unexpired term of the late Congressman William A. Ashbrook, has announced he will be a candidate for the regular term, but he has not yet filed.

Two other Democrats—Byron B. Ashbrook of Johnstown and Freer Bittinger of Ashland—have

CHANGE POLICY

Nazis Ease Up on Danger to Scandinavian Ships, Report.

OLSO—(AP)—The newspaper Afterposten said today it had learned on the highest authority that Germany had agreed to a policy which will lessen the war danger to Scandinavian shipping.

The first step in this was the reported agreement by Germany not to attack Norwegian ships which do not sail in convoys (presumably to British ports) or which journey between neutral ports.

(The Scandinavian nations generally and Norway in particular have suffered heavy shipping losses through the war at sea.)

It was regarded probable here that the same treatment would be accorded Swedish, Danish and possibly all neutral shipping.

SCUTTLED SHIP CREW IN PORT

37 Survivors of Freighter Nazis Sunk in View of Capture, Arrive.

(By United Press)

TRUJILLO, Dominican Republic—Thirty-seven survivors of the 5,600 ton German steamer Hannover, scuttled and burned when approached by a British cruiser in the American neutrality zone, arrived here today.

The fate of 57 other crewmen and the captain was uncertain.

The Hannover was burned and abandoned when a British cruiser approached it in Mona Channel, between Haiti and Puerto Rico last Thursday night. The United States air base is on the Puerto Rican side of the 75-mile wide channel.

The German vessel, one of a number of ships loaded in Latin American ports which have tried to run the British blockade, left Willemstad, Netherland West Indies, Tuesday, with a cargo of ore and other supplies.

When they saw the British cruiser, the crew set the ship afire, opened its sea cocks and abandoned her.

The Mona Channel is patrolled by United States air force planes.

The Hannover was the fourth German merchantman to be scuttled or captured in the West Indies in recent weeks—all within the neutrality zone.

CRIPPLED YOUTH KILLS FATHER

Son Barricades Self in Bathroom; Finally Surrenders.

FLEETWOOD, Pa.—(AP)—A 25-year-old cripple shot and killed his father in the presence of his mother shortly after midnight and barricaded himself in a bathroom for three hours before submitting to arrest, State Policeman Soule reported today.

Soule identified the young man as Warren Faust, a commercial artist unable to walk without crutches as a result of infantile paralysis. The father was Alvin P. Faust, 50.

Soule quoted Dr. Russell M. Hartman, the family's physician, as saying the young man was mentally deranged.

CHAMBERLAIN HINTS WAR'S ABOUT OVER

SPURNED 'GO-BETWEEN'

Confirms That Britain Refused to Pass Peace Terms to Finns at Russian Request.

BULLETIN

LONDON—(U.P.)—The ministry of economic warfare announced today that Britain and Norway have signed a war trade agreement.

(By United Press)

LONDON—Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain told the house of commons today that Britain and France had offered to aid Finland "with all available resources" but that the Finns so far had failed to make a direct appeal for allied assistance.

The prime minister's statement, coinciding with Finnish-Russian peace negotiations at Moscow, generally was interpreted as a tacit admission that the Finnish war was about over. Reports from Scandinavia were that negotiations were proceeding successfully.

On the other hand, it was by no means certain that the Finns would accept the Russian terms for peace and parliamentary sources said that if the negotiations collapse the allied offer of full assistance would still stand.

Asked if the British position was not tantamount to being at war with Russia, the prime minister significantly replied:

"We have not arrived at that yet."

Chamberlain, who confirmed that the Russians two weeks ago had advanced peace terms which the British refused to pass on to Finland, apparently clarified the allied position toward aid to the Finns in an effort to protect British and French prestige and to offset predictions that collapse of the war in Finland would greatly strengthen the German war position by

2 FLIERS DIE

Army Pilots Killed as Plane Crashes, Burns in Kansas.

DENVER—(INS)—Two army pilots stationed at Lowry field in Denver were killed in a plane crash in Kansas last night, it was reported today by officials at Lowry field.

The pilots were Maj. Devereux M. Meyers, a native Virginian, and Corp. Maurice M. Melvin, of Olivet, Mich.

Capt. Leo Dawson, public relations officer at Lowry field, said the two men were returning from a training flight to California and had left the airport at Albuquerque at 4 p. m. yesterday. They crashed in a fog near Sharon Springs, Kas.

Capt. Dawson said that Sheriff Orville Walker of Sharon Springs reported the crash to officials at Lowry field late last night and said the plane burst into flames. One of the bodies of the men was thrown clear of the wreckage.

Copenhagen Hears Peace Agreement To Be Recommended By Negotiators For Finland; Parliament Reported In Session To Give Final Approval.

BULLETIN

STOCKHOLM—(UP)—The Finnish delegation which has been conducting peace negotiations at Moscow was reported without confirmation today to have arrived by airplane en route to Helsinki.

(By International News Service)

COPENHAGEN—A peace agreement between Finland and Soviet Russia, putting an immediate stop to the bloody carnage raging since last November, is now but a matter of hours at most, according to reliable indications in Copenhagen today.

(Editor's note: This version of the situation was in conflict with a statement made by Finnish Foreign Minister V. A. Tanner in a telephone interview with Reuter's correspondent at Stockholm. Tanner said that peace negotiations were still in progress and that Finland had not yet accepted Russia's terms.)

At 4 p. m. (10 a. m. E. S. T.), Moscow reports received in Copenhagen by way of Stockholm said that final and presumably satisfactory terms had been drafted.

In addition, Helsinki dispatches said that the Finnish parliament already was meeting in secret session to consider the proposals.

The Finnish delegation in Moscow itself is not empowered to sanction the agreement, the Finnish constitution necessitating parliamentary approval of all international undertakings.

But it was reported in Copenhagen that within a comparatively short time the peace terms would be made public, possibly accompanied by announcement of an armistice.

Stock Prices Rise.

(An Exchange Telegraph dispatch from Copenhagen stated that the Finnish foreign policy committee had reported to parliament, recommending acceptance of the Russian peace conditions. Belief that an armistice will be announced shortly caused a rise in stock prices on the Copenhagen exchange.)

So far as the actual terms were concerned, there were conflicting reports.

One said that Russian demands for a naval base at Hango had been dropped in exchange for demilitarization of the entire Finnish south coast.

Another said that the soviet union was willing to give up Petsamo, now occupied, provided there is a new demarcation of the fisherman's Peninsula adjoining.

HELSINKI: Finns Perplexed By Talk of Peace, Bitter Battles

(By Associated Press)

HELSINKI—Swiftly changing situations, swaying between peace and war, kept Finland in anxious suspense today.

First, official disclosure of peace talks in Moscow suggested that her defense of independence was almost over. Then, within a few hours, bitter words from the Moscow radio hinted it might be far from ended.

Perplexed Finns gathered that the Moscow negotiations might have hit a snag.

On one side was the surprising news of the Finnish peace delegation; on the other, reports that Finnish forces still were battling a Russian army hammering with undiminished fury at Viipuri.

On one side, the Finns were told that Soviet Russia had named her price; on the other, they learned that Red army bombers again had bombed civilian populations.

Terms of the Russian proposals were not disclosed and the Finnish announcement made clear that "no decision has been taken up to the present."

The government merely told the warring republic yesterday that a four-man Finnish delegation was in Moscow at Russia's invitation and had begun direct negotiations "to find out whether possibilities exist for a cessation of hostilities and a restoration of peace."

But early today, after a two-day silence regarded as significant, the Moscow radio turned oral guns on Premier Risto Ryti, head of the Finnish negotiators, and renewed appeals to Finnish soldiers to revolt.

(In Stockholm, informed sources said Russia had offered Finland a new Karelian isthmus frontier, leaving Viipuri to the Finns but taking a large part of the Mannerheim line).

ROME: Ribbentrop Sees Pope, Converses With Il Duce Later

(By Associated Press)

ROME—Foreign Minister Joachim Von Ribbentrop of Germany visited Pope Pius XII today after an audience with King Vittorio Emanuele.

Further political conversations with Premier Mussolini were to follow later in a day of intense activity which observers found to indicate two things:

1.—Adolf Hitler is making a friendly gesture toward the vatican.

2.—He is seeking Italy's views on the possibility of an extension of the European war either by the British-French allies or Germany herself.

Von Ribbentrop was received at the Vatican with full honors accorded foreign ministers. He talked with the Pope for an hour in German which the Pontiff speaks fluently.

Since nothing was known of the nature of Von Ribbentrop's talk with Mussolini yesterday, foreign reports that they concerned themselves with a guarantee of Finland's frontiers if Helsinki accepted Russian peace terms lacked confirmation.

But authoritative Fascists said that if a proposal for the joint guarantee were made, it was out of the question for Italy to be-

British Question Whether Germany's As Bad Off as Government Tells Them

They're Convinced That Savage Warfare Lies Ahead For Them.

(Editor's Note—The following is the first in a series of dispatches from the chief centers of Europe, dealing with the effects of the war to date and the prospects for the future.)

By WALLACE CARROLL

LONDON—One of the most striking developments in Great Britain as she faces a possible turn of events this spring is that the people appear to be wondering whether Hitler is really as badly off as he has been pictured.

For more than six months the press and government have presented the German chancellor as a trapped beast who would be strangled slowly but certainly by the allied blockade.

Now questions are being fired at the government in parliament which reveal an uneasy suspicion that Germany is getting enough food and raw materials despite the blockade. The people are beginning to abandon their complacency.

There is less boredom with the blackouts and air raid alarms. The people seem convinced that they may have to endure savage warfare in the

Marriage Meddlers

By ADELE GARRISON

Continuation of "Married Comrades"

I found Lillian and raised my eyebrows in query as I gestured toward my father's door.

"Not a thing doing so far," Harry Underwood said. "We hear their voices occasionally, otherwise we might be tempted to barge in. But they're evidently at a dead-lock."

Lillian drew me down beside her and said "Edith?" questioningly.

"Asleep, finally, after some hot milk and a sedative," I said, and Lillian gave a short laugh that sounded more like a snort.

"You are the forgivingest thing," she said with grudging admiration, and Dicky struck in vehemently.

"Too darn forgiving if you ask me," he said. "You're worn to a frazzle as it is. I'll not have you nursing that neurotic."

"Don't tell me—" Dicky began, evidently bent on continuing the argument, but to my great relief the bell in my father's room sounded an insistent peal, and he sprang at once to answer it.

He came back almost at once and spoke to Harry.

"The Chief wants two guards, and he says you are all to come in now."

"I'll have the guards here in a jiffy," Harry Underwood said, and Lillian and I came into my father's room.

We found him lying back in his chair, near exhaustion from his interview. Across the room from him the man whom I had seen creeping through the underbrush was sullenly slumped on a chair.

My father did not turn his head, and his eyes were fixed upon the opposite wall. But his voice was incisive.

"Look over this man carefully," he said. "I want you to recognize him if you see him again."

"Take this man to the Montauk highway," he directed, "and set him down about midway between Southampton and Easthampton. Take his shackles off before you leave here, and from the moment you leave this room until you release him keep him as inconspicuous as you can."

He turned to the man.

"You are sure you can remember everything I have said to you, and what you are to say and do?" he asked.

"I remember," the man returned sullenly.

"Very good," my father commended. Then his voice was suddenly filled with a great weariness.

"Take him away," he said, and closed his eyes as if he could not longer bear the sight of the shackled man.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

BY Shepard Barclay

"The Authority on Authorities"

SHOW YOUR DISTRIBUTION

This inaugurates a brief course on the most important fundamentals of bidding and play as practiced by the overwhelming majority of contract bridge masters. It is in these basic things that the average good player makes the most costly mistakes. Each Monday a general subject will be covered. It will pay the ambitious student to paste these in a notebook for repeated reference. We begin with a set of examples to show how an expert, with a fairly strong hand, indicates his exact suit length to his partner.

1— ♠ A K J 2 ♥ K Q J 2 ♦ 3 2 ♣ Q 3 2

2— ♠ A K J 3 2 ♥ K Q J 3 2 ♦ 2 ♣ Q 2

3— ♠ A K J 2 ♥ K Q J 3 2 ♦ 3 2 ♣ Q 2

4— ♠ A K J 3 2 ♥ K Q J 2 ♦ 3 2 ♣ Q 2

5— ♠ A K J 4 3 2 ♥ K Q J 2 ♦ 2 ♣ Q 2

6— ♠ A K J 2 ♥ K Q J 4 3 2 ♦ 2 ♣ Q 2

Presume that in each case the partner responds first with diamonds, then with clubs. On the first hand the bidding would be: 1-Spade, 2-Diamonds; 2-Hearts, 3-Clubs; 3-No Trumps. On No. 2, 2-Hearts, 3-Clubs; 3-Hearts. In the first case, no suit could stand a rebid, none being over four cards. In the second, the rebid of the lower-ranking suit indicates that both are rebiddable at least five cards long, so that three little cards would be ample support for a raise by the partner.

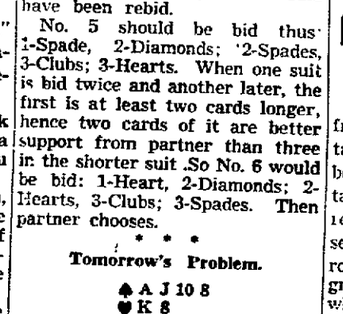
No. 3 should be bid thus: 1-Heart, 2-Diamonds; 2-Spades, 3-Clubs; 3-No Trumps. When the higher suit is bid after the lower, especially with suits of adjoining rank it indicates one more card in the lower.

No. 4 calls for this bidding: 1-Spade, 2-Diamonds, 2-Hearts; 3-Clubs; 3-Spades. Rebidding the higher indicates it is rebiddable, but the lower is not, else it would have been rebid.

No. 5 should be bid thus: 1-Spade, 2-Diamonds; 2-Spades, 3-Clubs; 3-Hearts. When one suit is bid twice and another later, the first is at least two cards longer, hence two cards of it are better support from partner than three in the shorter suit. So No. 6 would be bid: 1-Heart, 2-Diamonds; 2-Hearts, 3-Clubs; 3-Spades. Then partner chooses.

* * *

Tomorrow's Problem.



(Dealer: West. North-South vulnerable.)

If South takes the second club trick, drops two trumps, leads a diamond to East's ace, and the latter returns a third club, how should South then play for 4-Hearts?

HOROSCOPE

For Tuesday, March 12.

A difficult day is presaged from the strongly adverse planetary aspects. There are likely to be tenacious obstacles which will take much tact and diplomacy to remove. The stubborn opposition seems to have its source in deep roots, probably in connection with groups or organized bodies, with whom much discrimination should be exercised.

Those whose birthday it is may have to draw on a reserve fund of patience, fortitude and prudence during the year in order to sidestep or vanquish obstinate and difficult situations. Many obstacles and frustrating circumstances arise, probably from old organizations or new and ambitious groups.

A child born on this day may be fairly clever, with deep, subtle and shrewd traits of character, which should enable it to transcend frustrating circumstances by prudence, clear thinking and strategic tactics.

Dry Hair Needs Oiling

By MME. QUI VIVE

Girls whose locks look as if they had been basted with butter think that fate had it in for them. They low their heads at beauty's wailing wall and render heart-breaking cries. They don't stop to think that the dryheads also have their troubles too. Crisp hair is persistently rebellious, whisps sprouting out here and there. It may break at the touch of the comb. If tresses are dry the scalp is too, a favorable lodging place for dandruff.

Sebaceous glands are on strike or have gone fast asleep. They are not producing the natural oil necessary to keep the scalp in normal condition and the silky shafts alive and glittery. Why that is cannot always be determined. Diet may have something to do with it. Regular doses of cod liver oil have been known to act as a corrective measure.

If one is a finicky eater, it is a good plan to check up, see what food elements are lacking. Perhaps some day we'll have special diets for all our beauty ills. Who knows? At any rate, anyone suffering from dry skin should make it a practice to drink plenty of water. Six glasses a day are not too many, though one needs less water is one is a demon tea or coffee drinker.

* * *

Feed oil to a dry scalp and it will lap it up eagerly. Mineral oil is acceptable, is easier to wash out than olive oil, though olive oil is a favorite. In some beauty shops a combination of equal parts of castor oil and alcohol is used.

The best method of application is a medicine dropper. Part the hair here and there. Trickle the oil along the partings. Spread fingers and thumbs over the scalp, give the flesh a brisk mauling, lifting, pinching, rolling. If the oil is hot, it will have a more favorable effect upon crisp hair and flaking scalp.

Next morning have a thorough shampoo, using melted soap, lots of water run through a bath spray. It is impossible to get the hair clean without running water. Three soapings, as many rinsings.

* * *

Dry the hair well, apply brilliantine with an atomizer. Put some on the scalp; it will disappear in no time. Every day, when dressing the hair, pour a little brilliantine in the palm of the hand and oil the teeth of the comb. This practice gives the hair a glossy finish and makes it stay put.

The hair dryer is no help, nor are heavy setting lotions. When getting a permanent wave the timing must be of the briefest, as dry hair kinks up in a hurry. Be fussy about the shampoo medium. A strong soap will make the hair take on the quality of jute. Use the blandest you can find, and melt it.

Wife Preservers

Glass baking dishes which are hard to clean and have grown brown will be helped by soaking in a strong solution of borax and water.

CHAMBERLAIN HINTS WAR'S ABOUT OVER

Hints of Peace.

Indications that the British believed the war in Finland was about over were seen in the fact that Chamberlain advertised the readiness of the allies to send men and materials and thus gave the Germans and Russians advance notice.

Therefore, it was believed, that the prime minister was in effect seeking to safeguard the allied governments' prestige with their own people and with Europe's small states by emphasizing their readiness to aid the Finns and forestalling any charges that they had refused again to help a small nation.

It had, however, been clear for several days that the allies would find it most difficult to intervene in Finland directly, because Sewden refused to permit transfer of troops. The only alternative route—via the sea to the Finnish Arctic port of Petsamo—was rejected a month ago by allied leaders.

Chamberlain's announcement was made at a time when Finland's government leaders were in Moscow weighing Russia's terms for peace. The Russian terms had been reported modified and there were Scandinavian reports that the negotiations were proceeding successfully.

No word came from Moscow directly, however.

The Allied powers — fearful that conclusion of the Finnish war would release Russian supplies and resources to Germany on a bigger scale—previously had sent some volunteers to aid the Finns, but it was long ago obvious that this would not be enough to turn the tide.

Today, however, a dispatch from Kirkenes, Norway, to a Stockholm newspaper reported that a British airplane carrier and other warships were off the Finnish Arctic port of Petsamo, which is in Russian hands.

Chamberlain, in reply to a question in the house of commons, said:

"As his majesty's government and the French government have already informed Finland, they are prepared in response to an appeal from Finland for further aid to proceed immediately and jointly to help Finland, using all available resources at their disposal."

His statement was in reply to a question by Clement R. Attlee, laborite.

"The house will be aware," Chamberlain continued, "that both the French and British governments have sent and are continuing to send material assistance to Finland. This has been of considerable value to the Finnish forces."

The biggest British problem, in connection with aid to Finland, has been the attitude of the Swedes and Norwegians. Sweden repeatedly has said that any attempt to send an expeditionary force across her territory would be regarded as a violation of Sweden's neutrality and would be resisted by all means. Norway has taken much the same attitude.

Earlier Chamberlain declared that settlement of the Anglo-Italian dispute over Italian imports of German coal makes resumption of commercial negotiations between the two countries possible.

He told a questioner that whether Britain in the future would supply Italy with more coal than in the past "no doubt will be the subject for further discussions."

Chamberlain said also that settlement of the coal dispute, it was to be hoped, would open the way "for resumption of negotiations between the two countries for furtherance of trade to our mutual advantage."

Italian ships carrying German coal sailed after the British announcement they would be seized by contraband control authorities because of a misunderstanding on the part of Italian officials, Chamberlain said.

Seized 14 Ships.

The ships, 14 in all, were seized last week but it was announced Saturday that the vessels and their cargoes had been ordered released as result of agreement by Italian authorities not to attempt to transport any more German coal to Italy by sea.

In a statement regarding the Italo-British coal controversy, Chamberlain told commons that agreement with Italy had been reached March 9.

"It now appears that instructions issued by Italian authorities for some vessels to sail after March 1 despite our announcement of March 1 as the date after which control would be exercised was based on a misunderstanding," Chamberlain said.

"Recognizing the misunderstanding, the British government agreed to release the ships with their cargoes. On the other hand, the Italian government has undertaken that the remainder of Italian coal ships now in ports will leave in ballast and no further Italian cargo ships will be sent to those ports to load coal."

He received face cuts and body bruises and was taken to the Samaritan hospital in Ashland. Injured in the same accident were Roscoe Willis, 36, Ashland, and Mrs. Mayme Norris, 52, who were riding with Sarkel. Willis' leg was broken, but Mrs. Norris had only minor injuries.

Funeral services for Mrs. Sarkel will be held at 2:30 p. m. Wednesday at the Lutheran church in Shiloh. Rev. F. W. Shirey will officiate. Burial will be in the Shiloh cemetery.

Surviving, besides her husband, are three sons, Donald Sarkel, at home, and Eugene and Dean Arnold, by a former marriage; her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Baker of near Rome, and five brothers, Marion Baker, Mansfield; Irvin Baker, Lexington; Leo Baker of near Rome; Morris Baker, near Plymouth, and Norris Baker of near Shiloh.

Clifford Tittle, 22, R. D. 4, Mansfield, and Ethel Beckwith, 21, of Ashland were injured at 10:30 p. m. Sunday when a car in which they were riding with Joseph Monastere, 23, of 54 Orchard street, Mansfield, crashed into the rear of a parked truck on route 42 six miles northeast of Mansfield.

Tittle received a scalp wound and lacerations on his face and hands. Miss Beckwith was treated at General hospital for shoulder and leg injuries.

Julius Jezion, 22, Cleveland, driver of the truck, said he had stopped to repair a fuse that had blown out. There were no lights on the truck. Monastere's car turned over after the crash.

Mrs. Chester Sherman, Crestline, was treated at Crestline Emergency hospital for injuries she received when she fell out of the car in which she was riding with her husband. The door came open and Mrs. Sherman was dragged 100 feet before the car could be stopped, officers said. She was not seriously hurt.

Akron Police Check Slaying; Victim Beaten Against Sidewalk.

AKRON—(U.P.)—Police questioned suspects today in an effort to find the slayer of Paul Bonin, 42, who was beaten to death on an Akron street early Sunday.

Bonin, a rubber worker, had returned from a party with his wife and John Merle, 35, a friend, just before he was killed. Authorities were told that Bonin had quarreled with his wife and that she had left the men in an automobile and had walked home.

come a guarantor because of geographical difficulties.

Von Ribbentrop and the Pope were believed to have discussed reports of seizures of church property, closings of many churches and alleged mistreatment of clerics and lay Catholics in German-occupied territories.

Liberal credence was given in foreign circles to rumors that Hitler seeks revision of the German concordat with the Vatican.

Giovanni Ansaldo, in Il Telegrafo of Leghorn, Foreign Minister Count Viano's newspaper, wrote that the German emissary was too wise to ask Il Duce to change Italy's non-belligerent status and would recognize her "absolute liberty of action and decision."

War Forced On Germany, Hitler Says In Speech.

BERLIN — (U.P.) — Newspapers featured today as the keynote of Adolf Hitler's war memorial speech yesterday, his concluding words that the European war had been forced on Germany and must lead to the most glorious victory of German history.

Hitler spoke for 13 minutes. For the first time in 20 years, he said, the annual memorial day was being held "after a swift victory." He pledged his own life if necessary to insure a victory in the European war.

"Now for the first time in history the entire German people—soldiers and civilians—stand before the Almighty praying for ultimate victory," he continued, "we owe our soldiers all gratitude. They have sacrificed their lives. In the scales of the Almighty, nations are weighed and found wanting or found worthy of existence. . . .

"Like the soldiers of the past we are ready to die at any time. Today I live day and night with one idea—always to work for and if necessary to give my life for a German victory.

"That plutocratic democracies have declared war on national socialism only proves what we already knew, that we are dangerous in the eyes of our enemies because of social organization. All classes here are bound together as an indissoluble unit. The enemy's goal is Germany's destruction. Our goal is German unity.

"Five years ago military service was reinstituted. Pacificism and defeatism were banished. I often stretched out my hand but I only wanted an understanding on the basis of equal right.

"Let us concentrate all efforts to bring Germany worthily through this conflict. On this day let us vow that the British and French capitalist war must become the most glorious victory in German history."

Ashbrook, nephew of the late Congressman Ashbrook, was defeated by McGregor in the special election last month. Bittinger is former speaker of the Ohio house of representatives.

Lutz is completing his third term in the Ohio legislature from Richland county. He is a lumber dealer in Lexington.

Lutz' withdrawal as a candidate for representative leaves the Democratic race open to three candidates, Atty. Leslie Wagner of Mansfield, P. G. Krichbaum, former Butler township clerk, and David W. Cook of Shelby, Lutz' opponent in the 1938 primary. Only Krichbaum has filed.

TRAIN BLAMED IN $25,000 FIRE

Scioto Fairgrounds Barns Burn; 20 Saddle Horses Destroyed.

PORTSMOUTH —(INS)— Sparks from a passing train were given today as the cause of a $25,000 blaze that razed two old horse-barns at the Scioto county fairgrounds, destroying 20 valuable saddle horses.

Fairgrounds employes led several of the animals from the tender-dry structures, but all but two of them ran back into the flaming buildings.

Owners of the horses placed their combined losses at about $17,500, including their equipment. The county's loss was about $7,500.

END OF FINN WAR MATTER OF HOURS, BELIEF

Copenhagen Hears Agreement for Peace Recommended by Finnish Ministers.

This arrangement would allow Finland to retain an outlet to the northern seas.

Previously, the Copenhagen newspaper Aftonbladet had reported that the Finnish delegation to Moscow was on its way back to Helsinki with the peace terms.

The paper said it was understood the Russians had given up their demands for Hangoe peninsula at the western entrance of the Gulf of Finland and are now centering their efforts on Utoe, a small island far off the Hangoe peninsula.

Crediting its information to dispatches from Moscow, the paper added that the Russian terms "will now be accepted by the Finnish parliament."

The Finnish parliament's foreign affairs committee, said Aftonbladet, is rumored already to know what the Russian proposals contain and is willing to accept them.

Aftonbladet also reported from Stockholm that Swedish Foreign Minister Christian Guenther is rumored to have gone, or to be preparing to go, to Berlin for conferences with German officials.

Sweden Maps Guarantee If Finland Accepts.

STOCKHOLM—(U.P.)—The Swedish parliament's foreign affairs committee met in secret session today as Finnish-Russian peace negotiations entered their critical phase, were being conducted in the American embassy in Moscow.

The committee was called, it was reported, to consider the possibility of giving Finland a binding guarantee that Sweden would go to her aid in the future if she accepted Soviet peace terms. The guarantee, it was said, would be designed to prevent future Soviet attempts to crush Finnish integrity.

It was reported that one of the principal points now under discussion by the Swedish parliamentary foreign affairs committee was how to guarantee that Russia will not attempt any new aggression against the Finns if Russia's terms are accepted.

Also, it was said, the Swedes discussed how to help Finland to quickly build a new system of fortifications for the defense of new frontiers and how to re-enforce frontier points which would be retained. Sweden, it was understood, already has promised Finland that she would continue important aid in the form of artillery and other materials for this purpose.

Reliable political quarters in Stockholm doubted reports that Finnish Premier Risto Ryti had left Moscow. They said that Ryti and the other Finnish delegates in Moscow had direct telephonic communication with Helsinki and it was unlikely that they would send one of their members home to conduct further conversations.

There was comment here because the Moscow radio had not relaxed its attacks on Finland during the negotiations of the past few days. Russia also was continuing military activity in and air activity over Finland.

Tidningen's dispatch said the American and Swedish diplomatic delegations at Moscow had been extremely active during the last few days, though both had officially dissociated themselves from negotiations. Arrangements for the talks were believed to have been made possible largely through a visit which Laurence A. Steinhardt, American ambassador, made recently to Riga, Latvia, the dispatch said. The Finns are living at the Swedish legation.

THEATERS

IT TOOK the Boise fire department to rescue visiting film stars when 100,000 persons jammed the Idaho capitol, ordinarily a town of 20,000 for the double premiere of "Northwest Passage." The players, Ilona Massey, Isabel Jewell, Nat Pendleton, Virginia Grey and Alan Curtis, were guests of Governor Bottolfsen at a reception before the premiere at Boise's two leading theaters. Riding atop the fire trucks the players were escorted to the safety of their hotel. The governor declared a holiday for the event and the day's celebration was marked with pageants, luncheons, etc. . . .

Spencer Sings.

Spencer Tracy has become the member of a male quartet for motion pictures. Singing baritone, he joined Robert Young, Walter Brennan and Andrew Pena, the Indian actor, in a comedy rendition of "Drink to Me Only With Thine Eyes" for "Northwest Passage," technicolor production which is showing at the Ohio theater. The song was chosen because it had to be familiar in the period of the story, 1759.

Blondie Meets Rival.

Sunday is generally regarded as a day of rest to the Bumstead family, and so they proceed to spend a "quiet" day at home, but trouble comes in the person of Rita Hayworth who is cast as the unwitting siren who upsets their calm. All this takes place in "Blondie on a Budget" which is being shown through Tuesday at the Madison theater. Away from the lighter vein is "The Light That Failed," starring Ronald Colman and Ida Lupino.

* * *

Marital Troubles.

Stuart Erwin and Marjorie Weaver are featured in the domestic comedy "The Honeymoon's Over" which is showing at the Ritz theater through Tuesday. Stu realizes the honeymoon is over when he can't make the income come in faster than the outgo goes out. Shifting from baby parties to bizarre crime, from marital mirth to murder thrills and from palatial Long Island estates to the dives of New York "Another Thin Man" comes to the Ritz.

* * *

Invisible Menace.

Beginning Tuesday at the Majestic theater will be two new shows, "Five Came Back," starring Chester Morris, Lucille Ball, Wendy Barrie, Allen Jenkins, and Kent Taylor and "The Great Waltz" with Luise Ranier, Gernand Gravet and Miliza Korjus. Of 12 people aboard an ill fated passenger plane, which crashes in the dense jungles of Brazil, four are killed and three are left behind to face death, but five return to civilization in the drama "Five Came Back."

* * *

Novelty Musicians.

The "Pals of the Golden West," novelty singers and musicians appearing in the film "Rovin' Tumbleweeds" which is showing at the Park theater are all authentic "westerners." The featured singer is an eighteen year old girl. The second feature is "Allegheny Uprising" which stars John Wayne and Claire Trevor. The desire of ordinary men to live with security, pitted against the desire of money-mad men to take profits where they can be found is the underlying theme of this picture.

Senate Clears Decks for Debate on Farm Fund Boost

PLANS TO LAY ASIDE BATTLE ON HATCH BILL

Armistice on Anti-Politics Measure Agreed Upon; OK on Farm Plan Forecast.

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON — Exchanging one big issue for another, the senate appeared ready today to lay aside its squabble over the Hatch anti-politics law in order to take up a farm appropriations bill which virtually wipes out all the economies voted this year.

The swap was a prelude to one of the busiest weeks of the congressional session. In two or three days the senate will debate extension of the reciprocal trade program; the house will consider tomorrow the $655,000,000 naval expansion bill.

An armistice on the Hatch act fight was proposed Saturday after senators who want to broaden the law's provisions declared that opponents were filibustering. The question is whether state employes paid in part by federal funds should be barred from political activity, as are federal workers.

Republicans, who have kept silent during the battle between two Democratic factions, promised to support Hatch in demanding ultimate action.

The farm fight apeared a little more one-sided than the Hatch controversy, with economy advocates acknowledging that they had little chance of victory. Their only hope, they said, is that the house will refuse to agree to any senate increases.

The house-approved farm bill was increased $309,793,548 by the senate approriations committee, which added $221,000 000 for parity payments and recommended $100,000,000 for agricultural loans.

The measure now is $201,940,049 in excess of President Roosevelt's budget estimate. He did not include any money for parity payments.

Heated Debate Ahead.

The house had a quiet day, with District of Columbia bills up for consideration but tomorrow's naval debate likely will be heated. The measure would authorize expenditures for 21 new warships, more than 20 auxiliary vessels, and a number of planes.

The senate commerce committee will vote tomorrow on a resolution by Senator Tobey (R-NH) suggesting that questions regarding personal income be deleted from the 1940 census, which begins April 1.

Word spread in the senate that Vice President Garner was opposed to the questions, but was not giving active support to Tobey's resolution.

Scores Witnesses Who Testified In Trial of Doctor

LOS ANGELES — (U.P.) — Attorney Jerry Giesler said today that he would demand an investigation of certain witnesses who had testified against Dr. George K. Dazey, 41, acquitted of charges that he killed his pretty second wife.

The society physician had returned to his home and said he wanted to forget about his five-week trial and resume his practice. He had been in jail since Dec. 3.

Dr. Dazey had been accused of drugging his pretty wife four years ago and leaving her unconscious to die in the garage because he feared that another man was the father of her baby. Dr. Dazey had insisted that she had committed suicide rather than die of an incurable disease.

The jury debated from last Wednesday morning until late Saturday night. Then Mrs. Lucille Lessell, the only member of the jury who had held out for guilty, asked to be dismissed because of nervous exhaustion and "because it would be to the best interests of this case."

An alternate promptly took her place and a few minutes later Dr. Dazey was found innocent.

FBI to Question Pair Held at Millersburg

Up and Down THE STREET

Some Mansfield automobile owner is probably wondering what to do with the musical instruments he found in his car while it was parked on North Walnut street Saturday. They belong to Mrs. C. F. Hergatt, R. D. 3, Mansfield, who told police that she placed two guitars valued at $50 in a machine thinking that it was her own. Later she discovered that she had made a mistake and put them in someone else's car.

Madame Alexandra Kollontai, Russian ambassador to Sweden, who is figuring prominently in negotiations for peace between Russia and Finland, gave two lectures in Mansfield 24 years ago. John Schwaner, 25 Kohler avenue, recalled today. He said she spoke at Germania hall and at the public library in 1916. A picture of Mme. Kollontai appeared on the front page of Saturday's News-Journal.

School days returned again today for officers at the Mansfield state highway patrol station, who will be required to return to Columbus and spend one week in a "refresher school" at highway patrol training quarters. These schools are held annually so that officers may keep abreast of changes in motor vehicle laws. One officer will attend the school each week from the local station. Corp. C. F. Strayer, the first officer to attend from Mansfield, left for Columbus this morning.

A copy of the first city directory ever published in Mansfield is in the possession of a woman residing in Parsons, Kan. Volume 1 was published in 1858-59, a year before Lincoln was elected president and two years before the war between the States started. It belongs to Mrs. William Cunningham, 2518 Corning avenue, Parsons, Kan. Mrs. Cunningham has never been in the city, but came in possession of the book some time ago. She's willing to sell it to any Mansfielder interested in such things.

MORE TROUBLE

On Probation, Man Arrested on Bad Check Charge.

Howard Scott, 45, of Mansfield, on probation from common pleas court for defrauding an innkeeper was back in jail today, charged with issuing checks without funds.

Arraigned before Judge G. E. Kalbfleisch in municipal court this morning, Scott pleaded innocent and was bound over to the grand jury under $2,000 bond. Unable to make bond he was taken to the county jail.

Scott was arrested last week after he had passed an allegedly fraudulent check at Harry's Auto store, 18 West Fourth street, police said.

Royden Motson, 181 North Benton street, an employe at the store said that Scott, whom he identified, tendered a $40 check drawn on the Richland Trust company in payment for a $30 radio. He said he gave the man $10 change.

SIGNS SHOW WAY TO P. T. A. MEET

Boy Scouts Put Up Directions; 500 Expected Here for Wednesday Session.

All over Mansfield's business district today, signs were going up pointing the way to Johnny Appleseed Junior High school.

The signs were being distributed by Boy Scouts, and the reason for them was to guide an expected 500 visitors to the annual convention of the North Central Ohio conference of Parent Teacher associations.

The conference will be in session all day Wednesday at the new junior high building, with Mrs. C. Teacy LaCost, president of the Ohio P. T. A. congress as one of the principal speakers.

The conference is open to all members of all Parent-Teacher associations, officials in charge of arrangements pointed out today. The only privilege they will not have is that of voting at business sessions, this right being reserved to delegates named by the various councils.

Members of the Mansfield Schoolmasters' club and of Richland county clubs will join with the conference guests at the banquet to be served at the school Wednesday night.

A first aid station will be set up at the school, making use of the up-to-date clinic facilities of the building. It will be in charge of Mrs. W. C. Ford and Miss Sybil Scott, a city nurse.

DIVORCEE CONFESSES SHE SHOT WIFE OF HER FORMER HUSBAND

(By Associated Press)

COLUMBIA, S. C.—Tall, matronly Mrs. Mary Walker Burleson, 51-year-old divorcee, was reported by jail attendants to be in a highly nervous state today after, police said, she confessed she shot and killed Mrs. Richard C. Burleson, wife of her former husband, a U. S. Army colonel.

A matron and a trained nurse were kept constantly with the Galveston, Tex., artist and one time avid suffragette, and Police Chief W. H. Rawlinson said a physician would be called in should her condition become worse. She is held on a charge of murder.

Rawlinson said the prisoner related in a confession yesterday that her mind was filled with thoughts of her "wrecked home," and then went suddenly blank, just before she walked calmly into a hotel cafeteria Friday and shot the woman who in 1938 was named by her as co-respondent in the Burleson divorce litigation.

The chief said Mrs. Burleson "demonstrated with a rubber paper weight how she held the rusty pistol in her black silk bag.

The prisoner's purported confession broke a two-day silence during which she wearily protested her memory was beclouded. After the shooting she refused, police said, to say who she was and mumbled something about wanting her mother (who died two years ago) to come to her.

ARREST YOUTHS IN LOUDONVILLE AFTER CHASE

Marshal Jails Them Following Hunt for Stolen Taxi; Sheriff Finds Bogus Money.

MILLERSBURG — Two men were being held in county jail here pending arrival of FBI agents, after a strange series of events that started with the theft of a taxicab and wound up by revealing evidence of counterfeiting.

The men are Joseph McCarty, 20, of Garret, Pa., and Gordon Lively, also 20, of Mt Hope, W. Va.

They were arrested at 6 p. m. Sunday by Marshal Bert Conrad of Loudonville as they walked along the Pennsylvania tracks.

Conrad found a loaded .38 calibre revolver on Lively, papers that indicated he had served time in West Virginia penitentiary on an 18-month sentence for shooting his father, and had been paroled on Dec. 1, 1939.

Sheriff Harry Weiss revealed here today that counterfeit half dollars had been found on Lively and that he had notified the FBI that he was holding both men for them. In the meanwhile, they are being held on charges of reckless driving and failing to stop for an officer.

The escapode that led to their arrest started in Wadsworth Saturday night. They entered a cab there, told the driver to go to nearby Akron and at the city limits forced him from the cab at gun's point, according to Sheriff Weiss.

Then they turned the cab around and headed west At Holmesville, they veered around a corner at high speed, attracting the attention of Marshal Calvin Klingerman who was walking along the street. He ordered them to stop but they ignored him. The marshal commandeered another car and gave chase, but the men abandonede the car and fled into a swamp.

Sheriff Weiss began a search for the men, who were finally arrested in Loudonville by Marshal Conrad as they walked along the Pennsylvania tracks. Conrad said he obtained a written confession of the theft of the cab from the two youths.

What their connection with the counterfeiting business was had not been ascertained early today.

The Voice of BROADWAY

—By DOROTHY KILGALLEN

Speaking for Myself.

I think New York night clubs are made by the celebrities who frequent them in the beginning.

The Stork, Monte Carlo, the Algonquin Supper Club, El Morocco and "21" draw the big trade because of the exciting minority of famous names that goes there—Tallulah Bankhead, Franchot Tone, Hedy Lamarr when she's in town, J. Edgar Hoover when he's not chasing criminals; Ernest Hemingway when he's not catching fish. I guess people would rather pay high prices in a place where they can probably gape at Peggy Hopkins Joyce and Anita Louise than dole out smaller greenbacks in a place where they unquestionably can't

I wonder why combing her hair over the luncheon table is bad manners in a Tenth ave., girl and just a mark of identification in a debutante? Gloria Vanderbilt, Josephine Johnston and dozens of them do it all the time — that's how you know they're in society.

The two gabbiest men in baseball that I know are Larry MacPhail and Leo Durocher, of the Brooklyn Dodgers, and the two most taciturn Bob Grove of the Boston Red Sox and Charlie Gehringer of the Detroit Tigers. . . . I think hollyhocks are the only flowers that should be allowed to stand in front of a farmhouse fence.

* * *

I laugh every time I see Sam Levene in a restaurant because he always seems to be waiting for cue on a laugh line. . . .

Sheila Barrett is one of my favorite floor show entertainers but I am always a little afraid that she has an imitation of me up her sleeve. . . . I love big bathtubs, and travelers tell me the most luxurious ones in the world are those in the National hotel in Havana—last place on earth I'd think of looking for them. . . . I am bored by writers who wear wool ties and ski shoes to night clubs.

Faith Baldwin's stationery intrigues me—it has sketches of Faith painted on it; Faith gardening, and Faith looking harassed (probably racing a deadline on a new serial!)

* * *

I'd like, just once to walk through St. James' park in London underneath Chamberlain's umbrella. And I'd like to make that famous trek from the door of Mussolini's office to his desk, while he put that dead-pan glare on me. Newspapermen from abroad have told me it's like walking the last mile—but I'm not impressed. Bet my knees wouldn't clatter a bit.

The first time I ever saw a night club show I was convinced that the less a master of ceremonies has to say in front of the mike the better the floor show. I think the motto of every form of entertainment should be "bring on the performance."

I haven't seen a pink cheeked deb since Brenda Fraizer made being pale so popular. . . . Eddy Duchin is the only bandleader I know who, after a long night of work, dancing, and exhaustive spinning, sits down at the piano in his apartment and plays a self-inflicted sunrise serenade.

I have heard of girls who proposed to their beaux because it was Leap Year, and I've heard of fellows who accepted, but I never met one, and I still don't believe it ever happened.

* * *

I'm sorry to see Odets' "Night Music" close. There were stretches of dialogue in it that were poetic and fine and reminded you how much you were in love with New York. . . . I think those old songs like "Bicycle Built for Two" and "Shade of the Old Apple Tree" are terrible, and I can't understand why my dad likes them better than "Stardust" and "Stompin at the Savoy."

If I had to forecast stardom for two young actors currently on Broadway, I'd pick Betty Field, of "Two on an Island" and Hugh Marlowe, of "Margin for Error" . . . This war hasn't brought out another Richard Harding Davis, and probably won't. . . . There are just as good foreign correspondents in Europe today as there were when Davis was doing his spectacular stuff, but the censor and the dictator have taken all the glamor out of war corresponding.

* * *

Most photographers have pretty wives—I suppose because cameramen meet so many beautiful girls, and although glamor-conscious females love to see their names in print, they'd a dozen times rather have their pictures appear in the papers. . . . The saddest sight on Broadway is a dowager with a gigolo.

I didn't like "Pinocchio" as well as "Snow White." I guess I am just a set up for love interest when I go to a Sunday night movie.

* * *

The most exciting moments I can think of: a newspaper city room, when a really big story cracks; ringside, the electric moment just before the opening bell clangs at a championship fight; backstage, as the curtain rises on opening night.

Dashiell Hammett, I think, looks exactly as Dashiell Hammett should.

Hollywood Speaks---

—By ROBBIN COONS

HOLLYWOOD—The ballet season has come and gone, and Hollywood again has gone through its annual ballet-o-mania.

It was not always thus. Six seasons ago, when the Monte Carlo Ballet Russe made its first appearance in Los Angeles, the ballet had not yet been "discovered" by the denizens of golden village.

The ballet fans of filmland such as they were, noticed a few things, and one of these was that Charlie Chaplin seldom missed a performance. People like the Frank Tuttles were always on hand too—the Tuttles (he's the director) were pioneers in putting on a ballet short for the screen. Joan Crawford took to going.

* * *

IN SIX years, the change of attitude is complete. Ballet is "in"—in to such an extent that its local opening night could compete for stellar ermines, orchids and diamonds with such an event as the premiere of Disney's "Pinocchio." The ballet, here for about a week, took stellar patrons from the Disney event—no reflection on the latter, inasmuch as everybody knows that "Pinocchio" will be around a long, long time. The connoisseurs, or the ballet-o-manes, will point out that the Disney masterpieces, except for their dialogue, are much like the ballet in their grace and flow of motion to music.

Ballet enthusiasm, says Sol Hurok, the impresario (who, of course, is unprejudiced,) has grown here because the film folk are realizing that the ballet technique is extremely pertinent to their own work.

Chaplin, of course, the pantomimist supreme, knew that long ago. His little tramp is, even now, a ballet character. And pantomime, regardless of the talkies, is still a potent factor in film expression.

Hollywood's ballet consciousness has taken a more immediately practical turn. Vera Zorina, once a solo dancer with the Ballet Russe, is a film star now. Her husband, George Balanchine, is adapting one of the classic ballets, "Swan Lake," for use in her film, "I Was an Adventuress." He's making it a bit hotcha, I understand, but it will still be "Swan Lake." Zorina went to "Pinocchio" the ballet's opening night, but Irina Baronova, prima ballerina until Winifred R. Sheehan snatched her for "Florian," was watching her former confreres from a box. Baronva is on the road to movie stardom—as actress and dancer.

* * *

A CROSS-SECTION of the movie crowd at the ballet's local premiere gives an idea of the varied personalities represented. You'd expect to spot dancers, and there were Ruby Keeler and Eleanor Powell, taking it all in. Chaplin and Paulette Goddard, of course, and the directors Josef von Sternberg and Lewis Milestone and King Vidor. Jack Warner, the movie boss—Nini Theilade, one of the ballet stars, danced in a Warner movie once. Louis Bromfield, the writer. Richard Barthelmess. Russell Gleason. The comics Billy Gilbert and Herman Bing. Stars directors and comedians—all Hollywood finds something in ballet.

Four Unbeaten Clubs Qualify For Cage Meet

Smithfield In Class B Sports Best Unmarred Record With 29 Straight Wins.

By JOHN H. COLBURN

COLUMBUS—(AP)—Four undefeated teams were among the 32 preparing today for the Ohio high school basketball tournament here Thursday through Saturday.

This number of unvanquished quintets was a new recent year high for the state classic. Last year only one class B team and none in class A had a spotless pre-tournament record.

Boasting unsullied records this year are Smithfield in class B with 29 straight wins—the highest of any team—and New Philadelphia, Canton McKinley and Cincinnati Woodward in class A.

* * *

First round opponents were decided today at the office of H. R. Townsend, high school commissioner, for these 32 teams:

* * *

Class A—Bellefontaine vs. Massillon 1 p. m.; Defiance vs. Akron Bechtel 2 p. m.; Martins Ferry vs Canton McKinley 3 p. m.; Marietta vs. Findlay 4 p. m.; Cincinnati Woodward vs. Canton Lehman 6 p. m.; Toledo Waite vs. Dayton Fairview 7 p. m.; Columbus Central vs. Akron South 8 p. m.; Bellevue vs. New Philadelphia 9 p. m.

Class B—Willshire vs Marysville, 1 p. m.; New Carlisle vs. Waynesburg, 2 p. m.; Smithfield vs. Germantown, 3 p. m.; Bluffton vs. Midvale, 4 p. m.; Glenford vs. Rittman, 6 p. m.; Amanda vs. Sandusky St. Mary's, 7 p. m.; Canfield vs. Hanover 8 p. m.; Holgate vs. Kitts Hill, 9 p. m.

Akron North and North Canton, class A and B champions, respectively, in 1939 were eliminated in this year's district play. North Canton, undefeated in two seasons, lost to Canfield which entered the state classic with a record of 15 straight victories.

Defiance lost only one game and that was to Amanda, Fairfield county, during a Christmas holiday tour. Amanda's strong team won the central district class B title by defeating Marysville 31 to 25. Marysville gets a crack at the state title, though, because the district has two representatives.

* * *

Today's draw was planned so that no two teams from the same district would meet in the first round.

* * *

There will be eight games in each division Thursday, the class A teams playing at the State fairgrounds coliseum and the class B squads in the gymnasium at Ohio State university. All the games Friday and Saturday will be played at the coliseum.

SPORTS GOSSIP

By EDDIE BRIETZ

NEW YORK—(AP)—Is it telling tales out of school to pass along reports that Harry Stuhldreher is ready to leave Wisconsin? . . . Jack Doyle, Broadway betting commissioner, will send the Reds out favorites over the Cards. . . . Bad News: Jack Miley wired his paper (the N. Y. Post) the Giants are the worst-looking bunch of ball players he has seen in Florida.

* * *

AH HA! Dick Hyland of the Los Angeles Times has been doing a little gum shoe work . . . he thinks the reason Clipper Smith changed his mind about going to Loyola (Los Angeles) is that they promised him two dozen junior college players would be on deck in February, but that only one showed up—a 165-pound end.

* * *

The betting now is the Florida coaching job will stay right in the family. . . . Cecil Travis of the Senators set some sort of a record when he received his diploma from an Atlanta baseball school in exactly two days.

* * *

TODAY'S GUEST STAR—Nixson C. Denton, Cincinnati Times-Star: "Arturo Godoy's style must be catching . . . a lad by the name of Crouch fought in Los Angeles the other night."

* * *

SUCCESS TIP: For every hour Carl Snavely spends coaching his Cornell football players, he spends six hours coaching the coaches.

* * *

WRONG AGAIN—So the Tigers are using dead balls in training . . . we had an idea they'd be eight balls.

Big Ten, Miffed at Chicago, May Substitute New Teams

CHICAGO—(AP)—A threat of ostracism from all Big Ten varsity sports activities hung today over the University of Chicago.

* * *

The cleavage between Chicago and the other conference schools come into the open Saturday night when athletic directors declined to give the Maroons basketball games on their schedules "until some questions are answered."

* * *

The conference has been waiting for those answers ever since Chicago abandoned intercollegiate football last Dec. 21. Shortly after the school took this action an "unknown spokesman" for the institution said "You can't play Big Ten football without being crooked as far as the league rules are concerned."

Three weeks later President Robert M. Hutchins said in a speech to the students that there is no such thing as "legitimate subsidization" under conference rules.

The Maroons have not been a football title contender in several years, usually winding up in the bottom spot.

In a statement issued through Commissioner John L. Griffith, the athletic directors said they took "no exception" to Chicago's decision to give up football, but added:

* * *

"However, a statement of an unknown spokesman for the trustees and the issuance of a pamphlet containing false statements derogatory to the conference, by the alumni council, seems to the directors to be contrary to conference procedure."

* * *

The directors asked Chicago, in effect, to hand over to Major Griffith for investigation any charges of rules violations by other schools, or to retreat from its contention that there is cheating. So now it is Chicago's move.

Open Tourney Play Tonight

Long Island Meets DePaul in Opening Tilt.

NEW YORK—(AP)—They finally finished up a long, hard basketball season last week and now some 40 of the best teams are about to start all over again in tournaments which have some claim to being "national championship" events.

* * *

The metropolitan invitation tournament at New York, the national collegiate A. A. playoffs and the "little college" national intercollegiate tourney at Kansas City all get under way this week.

* * *

Thirty-two small college teams are entered in the Kansas City tourney.

New York's invitation tourney at Madison Square Garden includes just six teams — Long Island U. and St. John's from Brooklyn; Oklahoma Aggies, the Missouri Valley conference champions who are "doubling up" in the N. C. A. A. event, Colorado's Big Seven champions; De Paul of Chicago and Duquesne of Pittsburgh. Tonight's opening games send L. T. U. against De Paul and St. John's against Duquesne.

The big six play-off at Wichita, Kans. tonight gets the N. C. A. A. tourney under way. When Oklahoma belted over Kansas 47-36 Friday, it threw those two teams and Missouri into a tie for the confernece title. Now they have to decide which will play Oklahoma Aggies Saturday for the right to enter the western regional tourney of the N. C. A. A.

Kegler Rolls 682 Total In ABC Meet

DETROIT—(U.P.)—Henry Halfman, 40-year-old Milwaukee, Wis., hosiery worker, held an early lead in the singles division at the American Bowling Congress championships today with a 682.

Halfman hit 264 yesterday, largest single game of the current congress to give the Milwaukeeans leadership in three divisions but poor scoring in the five-man and doubles divisions kept him from all-events consideration.

John Merten and Cy Berg of Milwaukee led the doubles division with a 1,196 total, followed by Mat Conrad and Bill Hutchins of Glenview, Ill., with 1,175. Parkway Recreation of Milwaukee with 2,801 led the five-man event.

Becker Seeks Victory Over Marino Tonight

GEORGIE BECKER, the clever New York junior-heavyweight will make another bid to defeat "Bull" Marino, slugging Italian from New York's lower east side tonight in the Armory when they meet in a special mixed match with Becker wrestling and Marino boxing with the gloves.

* * *

This is the first time in history that such a match has been staged in Mansfield and advance ticket sales indicate that it will put one of the finest crowds in history into the Armory arena.

* * *

Both men were confident of victory. "I got that greaseball just where I want him now," Becker said, "and if I don't beat him this time I'll hang up my tights and dig ditches for a living."

"I can beat this guy any time I start doing anything," Marino stated. "Why I'll make him get out of the ring before the third round."

That's the way it stands and the men will battle it out over the 10 round route with George Woodland, the classy Columbus referee again coming here to act as the third man in the ring.

The wrestling feature of the card will send Jimmy Heffner, the brilliant Texas lightheavyweight title holder against the black clad, vicious masked matman who calls himself "The Hun" and flaunts the big German Nazi swastika in the faces of local fans.

* * *

It'll be a two out of three falls match with an hour and a half time limit.

* * *

The opening event carded for one fall with a 30-minute time limit will send Bob Steele, husky local lad against "Tuffy" Cleet of Oklahoma in a match which is the most important of Steele's budding mat career.

Designate '40 As Best Year

INDIANAPOLIS—(AP)—United States trotting association directors designated 1939 as one of the harness sport's best years today as they met to put the "clincher" on an isolation plan aimed at the 52-year-old American trotting association of Chicago.

* * *

With only two of 11 district dissenting, indications were that an amendment adopted in December by the executive committee would be approved, barring American-raced horses from all except free-for-all events at USTA meetings.

* * *

Frank L. Wiswall of Albany, N. Y., USTA executive vice president, claims the ATA is "parasitic in that it contributes nothing toward the compilation of statistics . . . but uses USTA records to establish eligibility" of its horses.

Fourteen new world marks, five by pacers and nine by trotters, made 1939 the fourth greatest record breaking year in the history of harness racing, a report to the directors disclosed.

POSTPONE BOXING MATCH

COLUMBUS—(AP)—For the second time, the 10-round heavyweight boxing match between Johnny Whiters of Pontiac, Mich., and Eddie Simms of Cleveland has been postponed. The bout now is set for Friday.

Selective Draw Chosen Again For Scholastic Cage Tourney

By FRITZ HOWELL

COLUMBUS—(AP)—Tournament topics!

They're going to use the selective draw again this year in the state high school basketball classic to prevent quintets from the same district meeting in the opening round. The order in which the districts will draw, with the number of entrants for each, is:

* * *

Class A: eastern, 2; northeastern, 5; northwestern, 4; southwestern, 3; central, 1, and southerstern 1. Class B: northwestern, 4; southwestern, 3; northeastern, 3; central, 2; southeastern, 2; and eastern 2.

* * *

The squads from any district will be placed in separate brackets, to prevent strong contenders from the same area meeting too soon.

All class A contests will be held at the state fairgrounds coliseum. The class B teams will play Thursday afternoon and evening rounds at Ohio State university's gymnasium, and then shift to the coliseum for the Friday and Saturday tilts.

A couple of years ago the Ohio cage meet became the only indoor basketball tourney in history to be postponed because of rain. That cannot happen this year, for the coliseum roof has been repaired.

* * *

It will cost you 50 cents general admission, or 75 cents for a reserved seat, for each of the eight tournament sessions. There are no season tickets, and no advance sale. Each team will get 15 passes, and the principal and superintendent of each entrant school will get two free ducats, but there will be no other complimentaries issued except to the press. Bands in uniform, however, will be admitted free.

The 32 entrants will receive 50 cents per mile (one way) traveling expenses, 60 cents per meal per person, and $1.25 each for lodging per night. Teams eliminated Friday night will not receive Saturday overnight allowance.

* * *

Tournament officials are: Ivan Davis of Columbus, F. G. Skibbie of Bowling Green, Tom Vernia of Chillicothe, Tugh McPhee of Struthers. Hired for one day—they'll handle the class B games at the O. S. U. gym—are Don Bollechino of Dayton, Ray Scherer of Coshocton, H. C. Campbell of East Liverpool, and R. S. Wallace of Hudson.

Each team will be permitted an eligibility list of 14 players, but no one knows why. Only 10 players will be admitted on passes, and only 10 may appear in the tournament games for any school, no changes in the first ten selected being permitted.

* * *

Drawings were made at 10 a. m. today at the office of Commissioner H. R. Townsend; all player substitutions must be made in writing; a free check room will be provided at the coliseum; players must furnish their own towels.

* * *

On the lighter side, or the more serious side—depending on the point of view—Ohio State university will give a complimentary breakfast to coaches of all entrants at 9 a. m., Friday, at a downtown hotel.

Mansfield Pin Teams Shine In Tourneys

Meder Women's Club Wins Team Event At Lima; Liederkranz Members In Lead In Marion Meet.

THE Meder Recreation Women's bowling team and the Mansfield Liederkranz Keglers gave a good account of themselves in out-of-town bowling tournaments over the week-end.

With Margaret Baker sparking the attack, the Recreation club smashed out a brilliant 2675 total Saturday night to win first place in the Women's Inter-city tourney at Lima. It was the highest team score ever rolled in the event.

Margaret chalked up a spectacular 605 to set the individual pace. Mary McMullen followed with a 559. Sophia Meder had a 556 and Thelma Linster collected a 504 in the match. Baker finished sixth in the singles.

* * *

Clyde Ritter led the Liederkranz bowlers Sunday in the Marion Inter-city classic. Pounding out a nifty 669 score, Ritter hopped into first place in the singles event.

* * *

Harold Selby and Bill Donnellan took over the top berth in the doubles list by compiling an 1185 total. Donnellan tallied a 606 and Selby a 579. Duke Weber and Nagle came in second in the doubles with an 1182. Weber was high with a 606.

The Liederkranz team finished sixth in the team event by scoring a 2707. Ritter, who also held first place in the all events by virtue of an 1866 score, paced the club with a 607.

Margaret Baker needed only 22 more pins to win the all events title. She came in second with a 1702. Sautter of Lima won that event with a 1724.

Sophia Meder, who had a 1160 all events total, came in third.

Donna Schuster and Evelyn Jocha are still holding first place in the doubles of the Lima tourney. Members of the Orange Street Cafe team, Schuster and Jocha compiled a 1090 total a week ago and their total was undisturbed yesterday.

Clarence Meder Hits 693 In Match Sunday.

CLARENCE MEDER collected a 693 to set the individual pace at the Meder Recreation alleys over Sunday. His total, however didn't help the Mansfield Moose No. 1 team in its Moose traveling league match with the Mt. Vernon entry as it dropped two games. Meder put together games of 213, 247 and 233.

Paced by Harold Lemunyon, who finished with a 637, the Ingram and Martin Oldsmobiles came in with a 1000 game in winning two games from the Stone Grill club at Sandusky Sunday. The automen collected 2917 pins. Applan contributed a 617.

The Mansfielders won three games from the Fremont Pennzoils in a North Central Ohio Traveling league match at Fremont Sunday.

* * *

Three members of the Liederkranz club passed the 600 mark to hit a brilliant 3075 total in winning two games from the Red Flaws in a North Central Ohio Traveling league match at Fostoria Sunday.

* * *

Selby was high with a classy 671, which included a 255, Ritter followed with a 633, and Weber added a 602. The Liederkranz outfit piled up games of 1035, 1077 and 961 for the total. The Fostoria team finished with a 3065.

SPORTS PARADE

By HENRY McLEMORE

DAYTONA BEACH—(U.P.)—The "give the game back to the boys" movement in football is rapidly catching on in the south.

* * *

At the present time football squads of two big southern universities are going through spring practice without benefit of coaches. Ray Morrison of Vanderbilt took a job at Temple and the first thing he did was to engage Josh Cody of Florida as his line coach. Thus the Commodores and the Gators are on their very own.

* * *

The press and the public have been inclined to adopt a sympathetic attitude toward the coachless boys. Out there working without any one to cuss, kick or yell at them. Speaking for myself, however, I think it offers the two universities, as well as the boss the opportunity for a noble experiment.

Why not continue, not only through spring practice, but right on through the next football season, with teams run and coached by the boys themselves? As far as Vanderbilt and Florida are concerned they couldn't fare much worse than their coached teams did last year, and they might very well do better.

If its publicity and money that a university wants from its football team it couldn't achieve those ends any better than by fielding a self-taught team.

* * *

Everybody would want to see the team play and even minor victories would assume the stature of Rose or Sugar Bowl triumphs. And as for publicity I have been in the newspaper business too long not to know what swell copy such a team would provide.

* * *

If its for the fun of it that boys play football what better fun than playing it their own way as football is played now under a coach the boys are little more than robots carrying out the coaches' ideas. There is little or no chance for individual imagination to enter into the game. It might be a good idea to give a player a free hand and let him with a complete knowledge of his capabilities operate on his own for a while.

Cage Chiefs Adopt Rule Changes

(By The AP Feature Service)

IF current proposals to change basketball rules go into effect next season even the best informed fan may have trouble identifying the revised game.

* * *

Each year a few coaches manage to whittle out a suggestion or two to "improve the game." This year they've gone into mass production.

* * *

The result is a flood of ideas that range all the way from elimination of the backboards to a plan which would have both teams shooting at one basket.

Central target for this bombardment of new ideas is the tall guy, the six-foot-sixer who does just about what he pleases with basket rebounds under present rules.

Columbia's coach, Paul Mooney (his tallest man has to stretch way up to hit six feet,) came up with the no backboard idea. His argument is simple: Do away with the backboards and you do away with the rebound off the backboards. Do away with the rebounds and you take away most of the advantage of players' height.

Dr. F. C. Allen, head of basketball's national research committee and one of the most prolific suggestors in the game, tossed in another aimed at the big fellows who park under the basket and merely reach out with the ball and drop it—not shoot it—through the hoop.

He suggested that the baskets be raised two feet to a height of 12 feet from the floor.

That's just one of many ideas by Allen. A number of mid-western coaches suggested that the basket's circumference be enlarged. Allen came back with a proposal that the size of the ball be reduced. Said he:

"Balls wear out rapidly and I think it would be much cheaper to decrease the size of the ball than to force everyone to purchase new hoops."

* * *

He pointed out that the original basketball was 27 inches in circumference, that rules ballooned it to 32 inches and then reduced it to its present 29½ inches. He also urged that some of the bounce be taken from the ball so that fewer shots will hop out of the ring. Both factors would also produce better ball handling, he believes.

Another of Allen's pets is a plan to have the basket as the center of a 16-foot circle. Offensive players could dribble into or out of the circle, but could not drive into the area for a lay-up shot if another player were in the ring. The defense, by stationing a man there, could make the area a virtual "no man's land" for the offense.

Ken Loeffler, cage coach at Yale, came out shortly thereafter with a modification of that plan. He would mark off a semi-circle with a 14 foot diameter (seven feet on each side) under each basket.

No player would be permitted to invade the area until the ball had touched the rim or backboard. Occupancy of the zone would be limited to three seconds.

* * *

Loeffler says most rebounds fall just outside of his "no man's land" and contends that the idea would solve the "tall man" problems.

* * *

Take all the dozens of proposals, mix well, and throw 'em into use and next year's basketball court will have traffic officials, stop-and-go lights and 10 basketball players who can't watch the ball for keeping track of all the floor-markings.

Tippy Tipped in First

Tippy Larkin, victim of a dramatic first-round knockout by lightweight Lew Jenkins in New York, is dragged unconscious by Referee Pete Hartley. It was fully five minutes before Larkin could leave the ring. The above action was stopped at 1-100,000 of a second by the new speedray camera invented by Prof. Harold Edgerton of M. I. T.

INVITE SMITH TO PLAY IN AUGUSTA TOURNEY

AUGUSTA, Ga. —(AP)— MacDonald Smith, veteran California professional, yesterday was invited to compete in the Augusta masters golf tourney April 4-7 after a vote of the U. S. open champions had named him the most capable pro not otherwise eligible to compete.

Smith, who will be 50 March 18, is one of the acknowledged stylists of the game. He tied for first place in the U. S. open in 1910, when he was 20 years old, and finished fourth as recently as 1936.

Training Camp Notes

(By Associated Press)

SARASOTA, Fla. — Officials of the Boston Red Sox were relieved today to find that an injury suffered by Rookie Dominic DiMaggio in yesterday's exhibition with the Cincinnati Reds was nothing worse than a sprain. At first it had been feared a small bone in his ankle might have been broken sliding into home plate.

PASADENA, Calif. — Defying the recollections of some observers of last year's campaign, Manager Jimmy Dykes of the Chicago White Sox is enthused about the outfield play of Taft Wright. He declares Wright is a better fielder, thrower and hitter than Gerald Walker, who went to the Washington Senators in exchange.

FORT MYERS, Fla.—Manager Oscar Vitt of the Cleveland Indians is keeping his fingers crossed on Johnny Humphries, a promising pitcher who was too wild for the Tribe last year. In three innings of a Regular-Yannigan game yesterday Humphries was impressive and didn't give a single base on balls. Catcher Rollie Hemsley bruised his leg in a baseline collision and may be out of action for a couple of days.

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla.—After giving some of the rookies a trial, Manager Ray Blades planned to start his veterans today in the St. Louis Cardinals' exhibition against the New York Giants. Bob Weiland, Mort Cooper and Clyde Shoun were summoned for mound duty.

TAMPA, Fla.—A lot of rookies get into spring games, but not often at first base for the Cincinnati Reds. Frank McCormick is watching his job every minute the boss will let him, with his heart set on winning the National league batting championship. He won't even take a day or an inning off to nurse a bad head cold.

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla.—Ever since he reported to the New York Yankees' training camp Lefty Lee Grissom has been planning on how he would show up his old teammates on the Cincinnati Reds when the clubs met in an exhibition series. But today Manager Joe McCarthy announced the three pitchers he intends to use against the Reds tomorrow and Grissom wasn't one of them. Monte Pearson, Bump Hadley and Steve Sundra were McCarthy's choices.

COLUMBUS TEAM SHARES FIRST PLACE IN TOURNEY

CLEVELAND — (AP) — A Columbus doubles team today shared first place honors with Cleveland bowlers in the 24th annual Ohio Knights of Columbus tournament, to be concluded in three more week-ends.

Walace Nicholson and Henry Kulp collected 1,211 pins yesterday to lead the doubles, and another Columbus team, Walter Kulp and Joe Zang, took over third place. Art Winterstellar of Marion with 638 held fourth place in singles.

WALKER TAPERS OFF

COLUMBUS — (INS) — Jack "Buddy" Walker, Columbus Negro heavyweight and Ohio title holder, tapered off in training today for his Wednesday night fight in Cincinnati against Tom Keneally. Walker will be seeking his 18th consecutive victory.

Red Sox Need Pitching

By GAYLE TALBOT

SARASOTA—(AP)—If the extraordinary success of the Boston Red Sox in producing great young players the last two seasons will hold good only one more time, then Tom Yawkey's fabulous outfit might give the Yankees a really close race this year.

* * *

Last season Manager Joe Cronin came up with a pair of beauties, Ted Williams in right field and George Tabor on third, while Bobby Doerr was developing into a brilliant second baseman. Now he has a good, solid club that needs only one thing to make it a serious threat to the Yanks—pitching.

* * *

The Sox could finish only a poor second last year with Jimmie Foxx powdering the ball for a .360 average and Cronin hitting .308. That can't go on much longer, for both Joe and Jimmie own to 33 years.

Neither can they count on Lefty Grove to go on forever. The famous Mose won 15 last season, only a jump away from his 40th birthday.

Cronin has hopes. He sat on the bench here and pointed out a half-dozen tall, young pitchers romping around the grass. All come up with fine minor league records. If one or two of them should make good, the Sox would have a great shot at the flag, Joe said.

The team probably will have a more thunderous punch this year even than it did last, Joe said. He is thoroughly sold on the last of the Di Maggios, Dominic, and is trying to decide only whether to play the youngster in left or center field.

Dominic smashed a triple off Bucky Walters of Cincinnati in yesterday's exhibition game here and had the big crowd yelling the way he skimmed around the sacks.

For pitchers, the Sox still have the backbone of last year's staff—Grove, Jack Wilson, Fred Ostermueller, Joe Heaving, Denny Galehouse, Emerson Dickman and Elden Auker. Also they have the youngsters Jim Bagby, jr., and Woodrow Rich.

* * *

Maybe the miracle will be Herb Hash, who won 22 while losing only 6 for Minneapolis, and striking out 144. Or perhaps it will be Wilburn Butland, who compiled a 19-10 record with the same club, or Ralph Waite, who won 18 and lost only 5 for Canton.

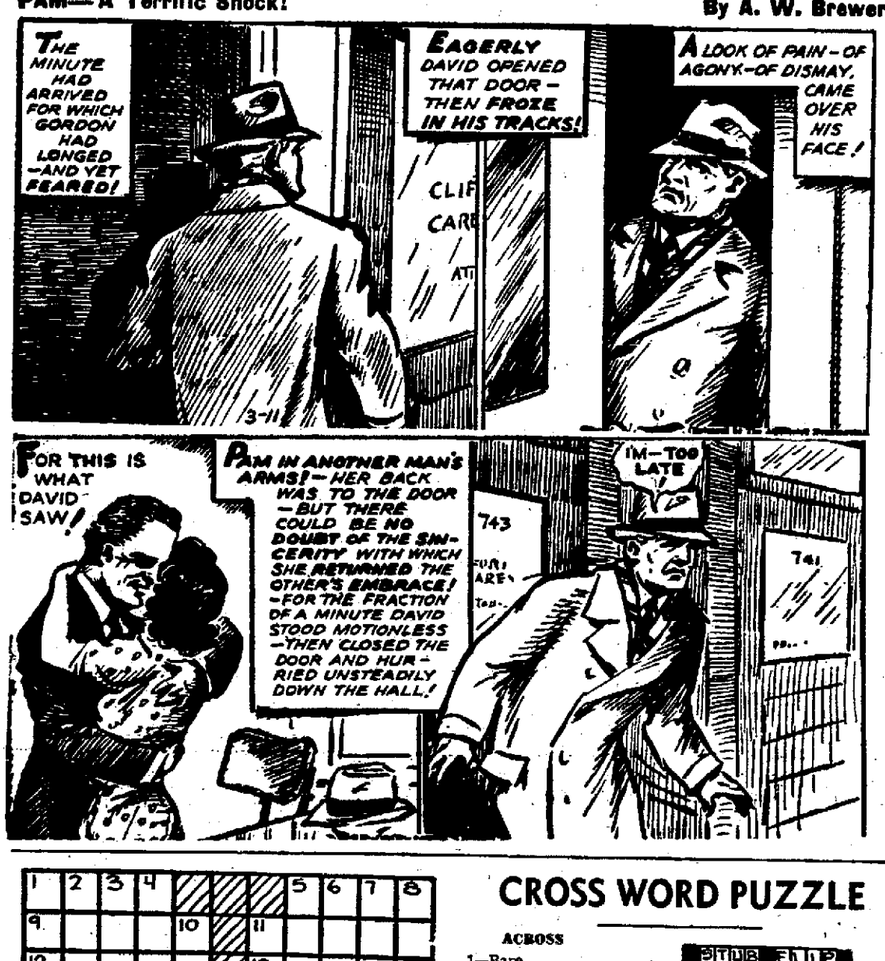
PAM— A Terrific Shock! By A. W. Brewerton



THE MINUTE HAD ARRIVED FOR WHICH GORDON HAD LONGED —AND YET FEARED!

A LOOK OF PAIN—OF AGONY—OF DISMAY, CAME OVER HIS FACE!
FOR THIS IS WHAT DAVID SAW!
PAM IN ANOTHER MAN'S ARMS!— HER BACK WAS TO THE DOOR —BUT THERE COULD BE NO DOUBT OF THE SINCERITY WITH WHICH SHE RETURNED THE OTHER'S EMBRACE! —FOR THE FRACTION OF A MINUTE DAVID STOOD MOTIONLESS —THEN CLOSED THE DOOR AND HURRIED UNSTEADILY DOWN THE HALL!

STOCK MARKET LEADERS PULL OPPOSITE WAYS

Analysts Learn That Earnings of Farm Equipment Companies Fell Sharply in '39.

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK — Stock market leaders today pulled in varying directions.

Among resistant issues were General Motors, Packard, United Aircraft, Sperry, Curtiss-Wright and Allied Chemical.

Backward were U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, American Smelting, American Can, Chrysler and American Telephone.

Bonds and commodities were irregular, as were foreign securities markets.

Talk of the lengthy business retreat nearing an end was encouraging.

Boardrooms scanned the survey of the magazine "Steel" which said that, while operations have lost all the improvement accumulated during last fall's war-stimulated spurt, consumption of the metal is in better volume than indicated by the restricted amount of new business.

Analysts studied estimates that earnings of farm equipment companies fell sharply in 1939 compared with two preceding years.

CHAPTER XVI

As Star thanked Wood she knew that the five dollars a week would have to go to Mamie but she would be able to look forward to more soon. Star would have been delighted to work for him without any raise but she did not say so. Her habit of reserve prompted her to say nothing but, "Thank you very much, Mr. Wood."

A few moments later she was sitting at the desk in the room next to his answering the telephone, making his appointments, saying, "Just a moment, please, I'll ask him;" "This is Mr. Wood's secretary. What was it you wanted?"

Early in the afternoon a feminine voice demanded to speak to Mr. Wood.

"Who is calling, please?" Star asked pleasantly, not recognizing the voice.

"To whom am I speaking?" the voice retorted. "This is not his secretary."

"His new secretary," Star stated proudly, embarrassed to hear the other snap, "Well, this is Mrs. Wood. I wish to speak to my husband immediately."

Star's cheeks burned. Jennifer's tone had been insulting.

"Even if she is Mrs. Milton Wood, she doesn't have to talk to me like that," she thought resentfully.

She was still smarting under it when Susan Hale came in in the afternoon to explain some of the details of the work. But Star was surprised when the other girl said, "By the way, part of your duties as secretary to the boss will be to kiss the feet of his beautiful wife."

"I'll do no foot-kissing," Star declared.

Susan laughed cynically.

"Oh, yes, you will. You will be sent on errands for her, you will order flowers for her, you will get theater tickets in your lunch hour and make all the arrangements when she leaves on one of her continual trips. In return she will treat you like some thing the cat brought in. She is without a doubt the most despicable female I have ever known and one of the reasons I am glad to give up my job. Mr. Wood is a dear, but she twists him around her little finger and why he puts up with it I've never been able to understand."

"Well, of course, she is his wife," Star admitted.

"She was a model in one of the department stores before she married him."

"That's nothing against her," Star protested.

"Of course not, but it may be the reason she acts so high and mighty. No one so snooty as those who haven't an extra dime and marry money," retorted Susan Hale. "After you've worked for some of these big shots as long as I have you'll know what I mean. The real ladies are as unassuming as an old shoe, and never make demands, but Mrs. Wood is a different type altogether. Maybe you think I'm being catty but for once I'm going to speak my mind. I've taken plenty from her, and so will you if you're smart and want to hold your job."

• • •

Thinking about it later, Star decided that Susan was probably exaggerating, but if running errands for Milton Wood's wife were part of her job, she would do them cheerfully. Ever the lady's haughty attitude would be a small price to pay.

She went directly to her mother's that evening, finding Mamie disconsolate and bitter. "Why did this have to happen to me? Mamie wailed rebelliously. There were so many women in the world who wouldn't have minded losing their husbands but she was crazy about Joe. He had been mean to her sometimes but she loved him . . .

Star had heard all this many times before. She listened for awhile, then suggested that they go out for dinner. She persuaded Mamie to dress and accompanied her to a nearby restaurant. The funeral was to be the following day. Evasive as always where Joe's business was concerned, Mamie said, "The people he worked for are paying for everything."

"I suppose I ought to get a job," Mamie sighed. "But I can't very well at my time of life and in such poor health and everything."

"I can pay your room and board somewhere," Star offered, "if you will give up this apartment."

But this was precisely what Mamie did not want to do. She couldn't move now while she was so upset. This place was the only home she had. Why couldn't Star come back and stay with her; then they wouldn't have to give it up.

Star shivered. She was willing to support her mother, sacrificing anything within reason to do so. But not her liberty. Oh, no, not that. She couldn't work and be under the strain of living with her.

"I'm sorry," she said firmly. "But I can't do that. I'm afraid it won't be possible for us to live together."

• • •

If the issue had not been such a serious one, Star would have been amused at her mother's attitude. Mamie ranted and raved. Her only child had refused to live with her. After all she had sacrificed to give her every advantage, squeezing money out of her grocery allowance for dancing lessons, taking Joe's abuse, going against his advice.

"He always told me I was throwing the money away," she wailed. "But little did I think you would treat me like this now that I am all alone. I have nobody else in all the world. No one I can turn to—But what can I expect?"

"I didn't want to take the dancing lessons," Star reminded her. "The trouble is you have never really loved me, Mother. No one has ever mattered to you except Joe."

They were back in the apartment now and Mamie, who had thrown her coat and hat upon a chair, was striding back and forth like an enraged lioness. Her hair, seldom tidy, straggled down her cheeks. Her eyes were swollen and red from crying. Star felt sorry for her, but she had made up her mind not to be dominated. If she permitted Mamie to do so now, she would never escape. The ability to earn her own living had given her the right to live where she pleased. The only way she could take care of Mamie was to stay away from her.

"You are hard," accused Mamie. "You never used to be like this."

"I'll keep the apartment for you," Star replied, "at least until you are feeling better. After awhile you may change your mind. It won't be the same living here alone."

"You're telling me," Mamie snarled.

She looked so fierce Star was afraid of her. She disliked leaving her, but she was unwilling to stay. Her problem was solved by the appearance of the manager, a woman with sharp ugly features and dyed black hair.

"You run along," she said to Star. "I'll keep your Mama company."

• • •

Mamie's forlorn expression lightened more than it had at anything Star had said or done. The truth of the matter was she was no real comfort to her mother, Star reflected on her way home.

When she reached the boarding house, it was late so she went to her room without seeing any one. But the next morning Clifford Payne and Bruce Donovan were at the breakfast table.

"Are you trying to give us the runaround?" Bruce demanded, pulling out her chair.

Star smiled affectionately.

"You know I wouldn't do that."

"Well, then, where have you been the past two days? What have you been doing?"

A mask fell across her face as she replied, "I've been busy."

"You may as well give up, Bruce. I discovered long ago that Star is one gal who won't talk," Clifford laughed.

"How about going dancing with us tonight?" Bruce continued.

Star hesitated, then she said, "I'm afraid I can't tonight. I'm sorry."

She would lose them by such tactics and they had been such good friends, she thought regretfully. But tonight would be the first after Joe's funeral. She couldn't leave Mamie alone.

NO MINUTE HAND, BUT OLD CLOCK KEEPS TIME FOR TWO CENTURIES

FRESNO, Cal.— (U.P.) —Ticking away the minutes as faithfully today as when it was made in 1719, a 221-year-old clock stands in the home of Harry Pretty of Fresno.

Pretty has traced ownership of the clock in his family for 140 years. It was given to him by his late father, Henry Pretty, who received it from his father, who was bequeathed the heirloom by his grandfather and so on back to at least 1800.

The clock is in a hand-made wooden case, 7 feet high. It is motivated by pulleys and ropes attached to a 14-pound weight that cause the large, ungainly-looking wheels to turn.

When John Lee, who was admitted to the Clockmakers guild in 1719, made the clock—one of his first—he probably had no idea it would chime at midnight to greet at least two new centuries and 220 new years in England, Canada and several states in this country. In fact, the clock was 56 years old before the Declaration of Independence was signed in 1776.

The minute hand had not been invented when Lee made the clock and only one hand denotes the passing of time. The space between the Roman numerals on the brass face with its elaborate scrolls is divided into quarter hours and one looks at the hour and estimates the exact time.

"SPEED for bob-sledding thrills! S-L-O-W BURNING for smoking thrills!" says champion "Bucky" Wells

THEY'RE OFF—on the mile-long Mt. Van Hoevenberg run at Lake Placid, N. Y. with "Bucky" Wells driving. Fifteen breath-taking turns to go. Fifteen chances to taste the supreme thrills of speed. But in smoking it's different. "It's slow burning that makes a cigarette tick with me," "Bucky" says. And he means what he says, because he's smoked slow-burning Camels for ten years.

"ONE-TWO-BOB! ONE-TWO-BOB!" As the crew bobs, "Bucky" picks up speed . . . 60—70—80 miles an hour, driving high on the wall of ice as he swings the quarter-ton steel sled around the curve. But in cigarettes, this daring speedster gives the laurels to slow-burning Camels. You can tell by their mild, mellow taste that Camels burn cooler, slower—and scientists have confirmed this: Camels burned slowest of all in recent tests. (See panel below.)

Smokers: SAVE THE COST OF THE STATE CIGARETTE TAX

Smokers who live in communities where certain state cigarette taxes are in effect can save the cost of the tax—and, in some instances, more—through smoking Camels. (See panel at right.) When you are a Camel smoker, you get this unique economy—and all the extra enjoyment of cooler, milder smoking—the fragrance and delicate taste of finer, more costly tobaccos.

In recent laboratory tests, CAMELS burned 25% slower than the average of the 15 other of the largest-selling brands tested—slower than any of them. That means, on the average, a smoking plus equal to

"I know that Camels burn slower," "Bucky" says. "There's cool comfort in a slow-burning Camel. Mildness—more flavor. Every puff is a fresh treat to the taste, and—get this—there are many more puffs to enjoy in a Camel. Slow burning means extra smoking. I'd walk a mile for a . . . ."

Even if a gust of wind did carry away "Bucky's" last word, not many people would fail to realize it was C-A-M-E-L. Camels are made from costlier tobaccos—drawn from the greatest treasure of mellowed tobaccos ever brought together in one place in the whole world.

AN INDEPENDENT NEWSPAPER

MANSFIELD, OHIO, MONDAY, MARCH 11, 1940.

Too late, all the other democracies may wish they had stood by Finland.

Apparently the only impertinent question omitted from the new census list is whether you're a Republican, Democrat or New Dealer.

It is sometimes wondered whether any other civilized nation, if it had our wonderful radio facilities, would use nine-tenths of the broadcasting time for trivialities and frivolities.

This Is Girl Scouts Week

TWO activities in Mansfield should be accorded equality in importance, insofar as their value to the community are concerned—Boy Scouts and Girl Scouts.

Probably due to an earlier start, it has been the Boy Scout organization that has heretofore attracted more widespread attention, but this has not been due to an inclination to minimize the need for the similar fine training and wholesome influence provided through such a program as that of the Girl Scouts, which, for the past several years, has been developing rapidly in this city.

Marking the 28th anniversary of the introduction of the movement into the United States, this week's emphasis is to be placed on what is being done in this community by the Girl Scouts and the admirable leadership already attained by this organization.

Made up of different age groups, and with programs of activities covering the years between starting to school and completing high school, Girl Scouts find opportunity to learn many things that will be of value in later life and which will make them better able to function in whatever field of activity they may choose, whether in the home as wives and mothers, or in some form of employment in which their lot may be cast.

Looking about at the hapless fate of some girls who grow into womanhood without the slightest idea of the duties and responsibilities that they will be required to assume, and the consequent complete flop they make either in matrimony or in their jobs, the potential benefits of membership and activities in the Girl Scouts organization can scarcely be overemphasized.

Nor can the need for earnest, capable leadership in this movement be disregarded by women of Mansfield who are qualified, or can become qualified for helpful service along this line. It may be doubted if any avocation brings greater satisfaction than the time devoted to voluntary service associated with leadership and counsel in an organization such as the Girl Scouts.

Majorities and Minorities

A WRITER in the New York Times maintains, logically enough, that while it is necessary in a free country to preserve minority rights, they are not so important as majority rights.

In a totalitarian country like Germany or Russia the majority itself is enslaved, so that the slavery of any minority is only worse in degree. When majorities lose their liberties, of course the liberties of lesser groups are lost. When the majority remains free, there is always hope for enfranchisement of the minority.

But such considerations are rather academic for Americans. In this fortunate land our liberties are safeguarded not only by our Constitution and courts, but by a party system operating outside of our basic law. Instead of being cursed by a multiplicity of parties, like various European countries, we have for practical purposes only two political parties, which alternate in power at irregular intervals.

Each party, when out of power, operates as a critic and a check upon the governing party and each limits the other's excesses. The voting public, which has final authority, serves as censor and master of both, and shifts the control as conditions seem to require, in order to maintain efficiency, freedom and adaptation to changing conditions.

Guard Against Injustice

THIS COUNTRY should be able to protect itself from enemy aliens within its borders without overdoing on new anti-alien laws. Yet there are about seventy such bills now pending in congress and others are talked of for state laws. Some of them would penalize law-abiding foreigners along with those who might plan or act as enemies.

There are immigration laws which sift out undesirable aliens from those who seek to enter the United States. There are laws providing for deportation under certain circumstances. There is the espionage act of 1917 which punishes seditious conspiracy. Honest and intelligent enforcement of these and other existing laws would provide adequate protection for the country.

The danger in passing a lot of discriminatory legislation in an emotional period like the present is that we sometimes go too far. We find ourselves curtailing the civil rights of citizens as well as non-citizens. There is also the danger of losing our American gift for building a fine nation of many different elements.

In a letter to a conference recently considering this matter President Roosevelt wrote: "One of the achievements of the American commonwealth has been the fact that race groups which were divided abroad are united here," and further, "We must be constantly vigilant against the attacks of intolerance and injustice." Common sense should prevail in dealing with this question.

World Domination Sought

ADOLF HITLER, having come to dominate Germany and some of her former neighbors, wants to dominate Europe. There is also good reason to believe, from his writings and speeches, that he aspires to dominate the whole world.

What has been revealed of the statements of Hitler and his subordinates to Sumner Welles is not surprising, except perhaps by its frankness. It seems clearer than ever that the world outside of Nazi Germany has to deal with a case of monumental egotism and boundless ambition, combined with an appalling lack of balance and ethics. And the most tragic part of it is that this twisted mind is in position to pursue its aims with the full power and resources of the German Empire.

It seems impossible that so crazy and tragic an enterprise should win. But it may be a long, bitter, tragic struggle before Europe comes to stability again.

According to a Los Angeles psychologist, "the 1940 glamor girl is vogue on the outside and vague on the inside"—which evidences the Hollywood influence.

We are also going through the "machine age" in politics.

Watching Trends

—By PRESTON GROVER

WASHINGTON — Uncle Sam is conducting a treasure hunt—the most thorough in the country's history.

It's a scientific search for seven minerals essential in the making of war weapons. They are: manganese, tin, nickel, chromium, tungsten, antimony and mercury.

The Army and Navy Munitions Board lists all seven as "strategic minerals"—that is, if the country went to war, all would have to be obtained, in whole or in part, from sources outside the United States.

A four-year investigation of ore deposits is being made by experts of the Geological Survey and the Bureau of Mines. Ore samples are being analyzed in government laboratories, and the Burea of Mines is doing research on metallurgical methods.

There have been no startling discoveries since the work got under way last fall. However, Bureau of Mines engineers say there is hope that potential resources of three metals—chromium, tungsten and antimony—will be found adequate for wartime needs. The outlook isn't so bright, however, for manganese or tin. Most of the excavation work thus far has been in the west and southwest.

* * *

What We Have—And Haven't

HERE'S the situation on the seven sought-for metals:

MANGANESE — Probably the most critical mineral deficiency. Little U. S. ore is of a type suitable for making ferro-manganese, the alloy used in steel manufacture. Needed for airplanes, other weapons and precision machinery. Chief hope is future development of methods to improve the considerable quantity of low grade manganese ores.

TIN—Second most serious mineral shortage problem. Domestic production less than 1-10 of 1 per cent of consumption. Some native undeveloped resources. Most of our supply comes from Asia. Used in gun metals, solders, bearings, and for protective coating on steel "tin" cans.

NICKEL—Hardly any domestic resources but Canada has about 90 per cent of world supply. Essential in toughening steel and manufacture of armor plate. Nickel steel used in large caliber bridge construction.

CHROMIUM — Current production insignificent but considerable undeveloped chromite ore which could be used in emergency, provided methods are worked out in advance. Essential for rust-resistant steels. Used in armor plate, projectiles, high-speed cutting tools.

TUNGSTEN—Domestic production, about half of nation's consumption, could be stepped up in an emergency. Ores widespread in U. S., but commercial production confined to 11 western states. Essential in certain tool steels and incandescent lamps. Our biggest imports from China and British Malaya.

ANTIMONY — Most of our supplies come from a Texas smelter which treats Mexican ores. U. S. resources in this country very limited but proximity to Mexico helps our strategic position. Used in bullets and shrapnel, and alloyed with lead for storage batteries.

MERCURY — U. S. imports about half of its required supplies. Self-sufficiency might be attained for a brief emergency period under stimulation of high prices. Used for detonating high explosives and for many industrial activities. Several substitutes, but for military use mercury is considered safest and most reliable.

Welles Interviews Reveal Little

—By CHARLES P. STEWART

SUMNER WELLES' European trip, from all that has leaked out concerning it thus far, neither has been productive of any peace prospects nor has it developed much fresh general information.

There were few expectations when he left here that Undersecretary Welles would return with definite peace proposals in his brief case.

The supposition was, however, that his talks with overseas statesmen would load him up with facts that Americans are not very familiar with—facts of a sort to prove very useful when the world (today's belligerents and neutrals alike) finally does get down to a discussion of international peace on a permanent basis.

Little Information.

Well, if Sumner Welles really succeeded in assimilating a particle of "inside dope" of the kind suggested, it's been kept a profound secret thus far.

Duce Mussolini, Feuhrer Hitler, and plenty of others undoubtedly told him lots of things, but they appear to have been things that he must have known in advance.

As to Germany, Herr Hitler already had explained the Reich's peace terms. Besides what the Fatherland has grabbed of late in its own neighborhood, and the recovery of its lost colonies, he wants to put the British navy out of business, he wants Gibraltar and Suez and Singapore. That'll satisfy him, at least temporarily.

And the British objective is to extinguish Herr Hitler.

Welles' Trip Superfluous.

No foreign trip was required to assure as well posted a diplomat as Sumner Welles that Britain would sacrifice her last "Tommy Atkins" before yielding to Adolf's conditions or that Adolf will see his entire country go up in smoke before admitting that HE'S overthrown.

Sumner's chats with the French, the Italians and the miscellaneous small neutrals may have elicited a few additional expressions of opinion, but it's widely agreed that the fight essentially is between Adolf and Britain.

Between Adolf and Britain? Here's a distinction.

The British unquestionably are united behind THEIR government.

Germans Behind Hitler?

Are the Germans united behind the fuehrer? Stories have been circulated to the purport that they're not—that he has lots of disaffection to deal with at home—that his country may blow up underneath him, as it blew up under the kaiser. If so, the war might frazzle out quite unexpectedly.

But these reports are impossible to verify—or to disprove, either.

Hitler and his lieutenants naturally deny them, and, even if they're true, probably don't believe them. The British and French PREFER to believe them, and perhaps believe them mistakenly.

Had Sumner Welles been able to scare up some reliable evidence, one way or the other, it would be worth listening to. However, testimony has been weighed, pro and con, for months, by a big corps of competent observers, and they still are uncertain. It isn't likely that Sumner has been able to out-guess them dependably on the flying tour that he made.

Well Received Everywhere.

Undersecretary Welles has been cordially received everywhere. That was to have been anticipated.

Each capital he visited gave him its version of the situation with the utmost appearance of candor. Berlin dwelt upon the Reich's willingness to make peace—with the destruction of the British empire. London and Paris equally emphasize the Allies' readiness to stop fighting—with the extinction of Hitler and the smashing of Nazidom. Each side says it's winning.

That's the information that Sumner Welles is advertised as returning with.

He hasn't got peace in the sack—or any indications of it.

He's had some interesting interviews. That's about all that there are any appearances of.

It was to have been foreseen, too.

There was so much mystery about the trip that many people imagined the Washington administration might have something wonderful "up its sleeve." If so, it hasn't revealed it yet.

Health And Diet

Our Children Have Superior Diets.

—By DR. CLENDENING

IT IS a truism that the diet of the average child of today is far superior to that of its parents or grandparents at the same period of life. The economic status has little to do with this. Taken group by group, people are better and more scientifically fed than previous generations on the same economic level.

Many factors enter into this. We have a better scientific knowledge of what constitutes a balanced diet now than ever before. Scientific agriculture has produced more food, better food and greater variety of food. Methods of transportation, preservation and processing of foods have given us a continuous supply of food over the year, with no seasonal periods of letdown.

Study Confirms It.

It has been assumed for some time that this is true. A recent study gives confirmation. The diet and physical state of 240 young male adults compared to the diets and stature of their parents at the same age, as made at the Metabolism and Nutrition Clinic of the New York University College of Medicine, furnish the actual facts.

Two hundred and sixty-one parents were studied. Of these 40 per cent had come from Russia, 22 per cent had come from Austria, Poland, Italy or Roumania, 31 per cent were born in the United States. The average height of the male parent was 5' 7", and of the female parent 5' 3". Their children had an average height of 5' 9.7". The average weight was 159 pounds (the average weight of the parents at the same age is not known).

Diet Determined.

The diet of the two groups was determined as nearly as possible by questions and observation. The average diet of the parents up to the age of 30 was more deficient in milk, fresh fruit, cheese and meat, as compared to the children's food, than in other articles. The parents received about 100 grams of fresh fruit daily, while their children received 350 grams. The parents got 200 grams of milk a day apiece; the children 450 grams. The parents got more either brown bread or rye, which gave them an adequate intake of vitamin B, but the children's diet provided this vitamin in other forms.

The health of the children's group was rated as follows: 42 per cent were in excellent health; 47 per cent graded good; nine per cent graded fair, and only two per cent poor. The health of the parents at the same age could only be roughly estimated, but this estimate indicates that they were definitely under the average of the health of the children's group.

Business Reforms Itself.

Business "has done the cleanest job in history" putting its house in order in the last generation, H. J. Kenner told the New Orleans Better Business Bureau. Mr. Kenner is general manager of the Better Business Bureau of New York City. In giving credit to business men for self-regulation, he declared that many of the recent reforms which the critics of business have proposed "deal with fantasies."

The trouble has been, of course, that those reformers now in political power have counted heavily on the short memory of the public. The movement within business for self-regulation goes back a long way. Trade associations have been effective agents of business reform for years. Yet a belief has become too common that the age of strict regulation of business began March 4, 1933.

In one field, retail merchandising, for example, considerable effort has gone into the improvement of business ethics in the years since the end of the World war, and for this effort business men have been directly responsible, working through such agencies as national and local Better Business Bureaus. — New York Sun.

WASHINGTON Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON and ROBERT S. ALLEN

WASHINGTON—Most tragic joke played by fate on anyone during the last ten years probably is on the little band of Roosevelt-haters who became British subjects and moved to Nassau to escape the New Deal.

There was no income tax in the British Bahamas, practically no property tax, no SEC restrictions on stock market trading. Americans moving to Nassau merely had to live there six months of the year to escape every penny of New Deal taxation. They could cable their orders to the New York Stock Exchange, blissfully ignore the Securities and Exchange Commission, the Holding Corporation Act and all the regulatory curbs which the New Deal has placed upon big business.

Furthermore, while taking out British citizenship, they could commute—one hour and a half by air—to Miami and Palm Beach, and they could spend their summers in Newport or Saratoga.

But now, almost overnight, war has destroyed their blissful paradise. Now they are subjected to all the wartime hazards and penalties of any British subject.

Re-elect Roosevelt?

LAST WEEK a crowd of these "nouveaux" British crowded around L. W. (Chip) Robert, secretary of the Democratic national committee, at the Bahamian Club, wailing bitterly.

"What are we going to do?" they cried. "We had saved up enough to last us all our lives, but now the British government is taking up all our American securities, and giving us depreciated English government bonds in return."

(They referred to the fact that Great Britain, in order to secure cash to pay for war purchases in the United States, is requiring all British subjects to surrender their American stocks and bonds. Naturally, American citizens moving to the Bahamas hold more American securities than the average Britisher, so are hit hardest.)

"Besides," complained another new British subject, "we're likely to be drafted. If this war lasts long enough we'll all be in the British army fighting against Hitler."

"If I could vote back in Connecticut now," moaned another, "I think I would vote for Roosevelt. He's doing his best to stop this war. And if this war continues we're going to be ruined."

"Is Roosevelt going to run for a third term, Chip?" came another question. "If he can stop this war, I hope he gets re-elected."

"But just suppose," wailed the last one, "that Roosevelt stays in the White House for four more years and this war continues just the same!"

Note—That evening, Chip Robert, trying his fortunes on the roulette wheels of the Bahamian club, won $897. "Just New Deal luck," lamented the new British subjects who watched him.

Tommy the Cork.

BRAINTRUSTER TOMMY CORCORAN ran true to form even in his own marriage. He was late as usual.

Always overloaded with engagements, he is rarely on time. It is commonplace with him to fill an appointment an hour or two after the time fixed. His marriage was no exception; in fact, he was tardier than usual. The ceremony took place three weeks after the date originally planned.

Only inner circle intimates know it, but the braintruster and his beautiful secretary, Peggy Dowd, had decided to get married the day after the president left on his Caribbean fishing cruise. But just then the battle broke over the selection of the trustees of the billion-dollar Associated Gas and Electric empire.

Storm center of this bitter row was Ben Cohen, Corcoran's teammate and the ace utility legalist of the inner circle. Cohen viewed the choice of John Hanes, former under secretary of the treasury who was being strongly backed by certain Wall Street interests, as a direct challenge to the administration and its utility policies.

He opened a militant offensive against Hanes, and Corcoran rushed into the fray to help his side-kick. And shoulder-to-shoulder with both was Peggy, who readily agreed to postpone her marriage plans until the fight was over.

The battle raged through most of February. Finally, Hanes withdrew and three trustees acceptable to the administration were appointed. A new date, March 4, was fixed for the marriage. That day, at the hour when Tom, Peggy and their best man, Ben, were supposed to be at the church, the young Dominican priest who was to perform the ceremony was called to the phone.

"Father Joubert, this is Tom Corcoran. I'm in Washington."

"Yes, Tom. What is it. Associated again?"

"No, not this time, Father. We've been delayed by a last minute job, but we're all ready now and we'll be there in an hour and a half. Will that be all right with you?"

It was and so—three weeks and one hour and a half late—Tom Corcoran and Peggy Dowd finally were married.

Note—After their enagement last year, Peggy took over managing Corcoran's personal finances, allowed him only $2 a day for pocket money.

How Termites Work

(A FARMER'S DIARY)

—By CALVIN A. BYERS

ONE of my neighbors told me that the entire lower frame of his house had been eaten by termites.

"It looked as solid and firm as any oak you ever saw," said he, "but it went crashing down at one corner and then along the sides until only a thin strip remained. When I investigated I found plenty of evidence. I took out a window sill that I thought was without any flaw, stood it on end and tried to split it. It fell apart but the blow sounded as though I had struck the ax through an empty box. It was eaten through and through. I'd heard people talk about termites but I never thought much about it until my own house was nearly wrecked. Now I'm tellin' everybody."

"How did they look?" I asked.

"I thought at first they were bleached ants, but they're the real termites. I've heard since that they'll eat rags, rugs, or even paper."

"They have a place in forestry," said I, "in aiding the destruction of decaying wood. Up in my woods last week I saw an old snag that had blown out of root. When I had pushed some sandy soil away I saw where termites had hollowed out the large anchoring roots and honeycombed all but the outside shell. Their zigzag channels made a labyrinthine center. I found three different kinds—the large pugnacious soldiers who should guard the colony, but were almost numb from cold. There were several workers frozen stiff, but beneath a deeper bunch of leaves and soil I found some that could move more readily. There are queens and supplementary queens with wings. The soldiers and the queens measure a little more than 3-16 of an inch in length."

"They eat the wood, don't they?"

"Only the workers chisel and eat the finely divided particles, but the interesting thing is that they cannot digest it without the aid of microscopic protozoans which live in their intestines. There is a mutual vital relationship betwene guest and host. The sterile workers are the slaves of the colony and feed the queens and the soldiers by regurgitation."

"It might be that ruthless destruction of little wild folk has upset nature's balance, and literally brought man's house down on his head."

Calls Parley to Study War's Effect on U. S. Business

HOPKINS ACTS GET DATA FOR FUTURE POLICY

Secretary of Commerce Summons Major Executives, Bankers, Economists.

(By International News Service)

WASHINGTON— Secretary of Commerce Harry L. Hopkins has summoned representative of the nation's major industries to the capital to discuss the effect of the war on American business, it was learned today.

Spokesmen for banking, automobile, steel, electrical goods, merchandising, manufacturing, investment and other business interests are to meet with Hopkins and government economists on Wednesday.

From this round-table conference, the commerce department hopes to obtain important information on which future government business policies will be based. A report will be transmitted to President Roosevelt and other high administration officials.

Primary object of the conference is to enable the government to obtain a reasonably accurate forecast of American business conditions for the next six months. Commerce experts have just completed an exhaustive survey of current economic conditions as well as the possible effect of the war on prices and inventories. To round out the findings of his economists, Hopkins requested the industrial representatives to present their views.

Resulted in Warning.

A similar conference was held at the commerce department shortly after the start of the war. As the result of that meeting, department experts warned business against too rapid inventory increases. Industry at that time was fearful of a sharp increase in raw material prices.

Recent Federal Reserve and commerce reports reflect a steady decline in business activity during the first two months of his year, and contained nothing to indicate any reversal of this trend over the spring months.

This week's meeting is the first major task undertaken by Hopkins since his recent long illness.

Bucyrus Youth Injured as He Goes Through Windshield.

BUCYRUS—One injury was reported in two automobile mishaps investigated by the sheriff's office Saturday.

Richard Howell, 19, Bucyrus, was treated at City hospital for lacerations of the face and hands suffered when he was thrown through the windshield of the car in which he was riding with Adam Gottfried, five miles west of Bucyrus on route 182.

The accident occurred when the Gottfried car crashed into a parked light truck belonging to Dallas Musser of Oceola. Musser had stopped on the side of the highway to talk to Dale Dobbins, whose car was parked on the other side of the highway. Lights from the Doobins car blinded Gottfried, the latter reported.

Two Accused In House Burglaries Are Bound Over

Two men accused of a series of house burglaries in the past two months were held in the county jail today awaiting grand jury action on charges of breaking and entering.

Arraigned in municipal court this morning, Richard Southward, 38, and George L. Offenburger, 24, pleaded guilty to the charges and were ordered held to the grand jury under bonds of $2,000.

The pair, one of whom served a term in the Ohio State reformatory for a similar offense several years ago, was arrested in a North Main street poolroom last Friday by Detectives Lee J. Remy and Oscar Krupp.

Officers said they had confessed to breaking into at least seven homes here in the past two months. When arrested, one of the men was wearing a ring taken in a recent burglary, police said.

Part of the loot, which included several watches and rings were recovered, detectives said.

BRITISH LOOK AHEAD IN WAR

Question Whether Germany's as Bad Off as Government Tells Them.

months ahead and are preparing to face it.

In the end, the pressure of British public opinion may decide the course of the war. The morale on the home front looks generally good. The Briton sees his cherished navy dominant on the seas. The German army is far from the Marne, from which it threatened Paris 25 years ago. The royal air force is beating off isolated German raids on the British coast which are nothing like the mass raids which were feared when the war started.

Moreover, the war so far has brought little real hardship to the majority of Britons—at least nothing compared to what they went through in the last war.

Butter, bacon, ham, and sugar have been rationed but there is plenty of everything else for those with the money to buy.

Money is flowing. You have a hard time getting a table at expensive restaurants and champagne corks are popping as they never did in the years of peace. Theaters, all of which were closed at the beginning of the war, are now sold out and there are six or seven good revues, all naughtier and nuder than anything allowed before.

Food prices rose sharply in the first five months of the war but steadied in February. In a middle class residential district, you now pay two shillings twopence (about 43 cents) a pound for steak which used to cost one shilling eightpence (35 cents). Bacon is 39 cents compared to 27.

Butter costs 33 cents compared to 23. Sugar is six cents a pound instead of 4-162 cents. Some kinds of fresh vegetables are more than double the normal price. Electricity has gone up 20 per cent. Clothing is going up. The famous advertised chain store "fifty shilling" suits are now 55 shillings ($11 instead of $10). Higher priced suits are being raised 10 per cent.

Rents have not risen but many Englishmen are paying rent in the city and maintaining their wives and children in the country.

Those who are feeling the pinch naturally are not enthusiastic about the war but the majority of the people seem grimly determined to carry on the struggle which they have been taught to regard as a crusade against tyranny, oppression and bad faith.

In the absence of the expected air raids, many people are now saying it is a mistake to wait for Hitler to bomb England and urge the government to let the royal air force bomb military objectives, such as airdromes and railroad junctions in Germany. They argue that the R. A. F. is now strong enough to take the offensive and at the same time defend Britain against enemy reprisals.

The realization is spreading that unless the allies can break through the deadly fortifications of the Siegfried line, or get around them, that Hitler and Stalin may get dominion over all of eastern Europe and then strike at the British and French preserves in the near east and middle east.

Despite the first uneasy questionings, however, no one in this country doubts for a moment that the allies will win in the long run.

People are asking whether another six months will find Britain at war with another great power, the Soviet Union.

Get Undetermined Amount of Cash at Cafe; Other Thefts Reported.

Burglars last night broke into Fred Miller's cafe, 220 Orange street, and looted a music box and cash register of a undetermined amount of cash.

Miss Vaughn told police the purse was taken from Isaly's West Fourth street store. A pair of glasses and a fountain pen, valued at $20 were missing.

Meanwhile Christian Herrick, 128 Hedges street, reported that he had found a box of government ammunition in the basement of his home.

He said the box containing 159 high powered rifle shells was apparently placed there by someone who entered the cellar. The door was unlocked.

ALLEGED 'FIXER', ARRESTED IN MANSFIELD, PLEADS NOT GUILTY

William E. Cahill of Columbus, arrested last week in Mansfield and later seized by state liquor inspectors following an extensive search for a man who posed as a "fixer" for the liquor department, pleaded innocent at Upper Sandusky today and was held under $2,000 bond for a hearing April 3.

The arrest of Cahill, who described himself as executive officer of Ohio Liquor Dealers, Inc., resulted from a joint investigation by the liquor inspectors and the state securities division.

He was picked up here at the request of Wyandot county authorities. Mansfield police found his car on the street and towed it to a garage. When Cahill appeared at the police station to obtain it, he was arrested.

Action against him was prompted by complaints from operators of taverns, restaurants and grocery stores in numerous communities, including Columbus, Upper Sandusky, Fairfield, Hocking and Knox counties.

The complaints, naming Cahill, said that he found fault with conditions in establishments and offered to prevent revocation of licenses upon payment of an $18 fee.

Cahill, at a hearing conducted by the securities division, said he offered to help liquor dealers iron out license difficulties and also offered his services in waging campaigns against local option. He said he conducted an anti-option drive at Washington Court House last fall.

For this service, he said, dealers were asked to contribute $18 for an associate membership in his organization without voting power.

The seeurities division is trying to ascertain whether the memberships were sold as securities without a license.

Cahill was charged with entering a local liquor permit holder's place, accusing him of violating the liquor law, and offering to "fix things" for $18. When the proprietor balked, the man allegedly cut his price to $9 and then to $6 and finally left with nothing.

He said he had been with the Ohio State Liquor Dealers, Inc., since 1938, but was unable to supply membership records. He disclaimed knowledge of the other officers of the organization.

MANSFIELD AREA TOTALS 12,592 DWELLING UNITS

More Than Half Are Owned by Occupants, Real Property Inventory Shows.

EDITOR'S NOTE — This is the first of a series of articles on the work and findings of the Real Property inventory, better known as the RPI, conducted by the WPA in Mansfield.

By HAROLD K. MANSFIELD
Director Real Property Inventory.

The recently completed R. P. I.—real property inventory—of the city and suburban area of Mansfield, shows a total of 12,592 dwelling units ranging from the largest home to the smallest one-room dwelling. Ninety of these units were under construction at the time of the enumeration.

A dwelling unit may be a single family home, half a double house, one of the apartments in a building, or any other unit customarily set aside for a family. Wherever "doubling up" has occurred, so that more than one family lives in a single unit, the inventory still counts the home as one unit.

But, where a house has been partially or wholly made over to accommodate extra families, it is called a "converted structure" and may include several dwelling units.

Thus, there are more families in our district than the dwelling units indicate; there are, however, fewer buildings used as home than the 12,592 dwelling units would suggest, because apartment buildings, double houses and the like account for several dwelling units each.

There is a total of 10,225 residence structures. This does not include buildings used for stores, warehouses, offices and garages, except where a part of the building houses a dwelling unit.

One of the most interesting breakdowns of the general figures is the comparison of home ownership with renting. In later articles, the discoveries about owned and rented homes wil be discussed in detail.

Of a total of 12,161 occupied dwelling units, 6,400 of them are tenant-occupied. This means that 52.6 per cent of our families are living in their own dwellings while 47.4 per cent are renters.

Within the city limits owner occupancy has a total of 5,346 or 50.2 per cent as compared to 5,307 tenant occupied units. Home ownership jumps way up when we consider by themselves the sections outside the city. Here we have 1,054 owner occupied units and only 454 tenant occupied units. Home ownership percentage goes up to 69.0 per ment.

It will be interesting and enlightening to compare our local percentage findings with some national figures. There has been published by the "Division of Social Research of WPA" a summary of real property inventories made during the years 1934, 1935 and 1936, covering 203 urban areas all over the United States and including over two-fifths of the urban families in our forty-eight states. The average owner occupancy in the above 203 urban areas is 43 per cent in comparison to our figures of 50.2 per cent for the city proper.

Our rate of vacancy is also below the average of 8 per cent in the 203 urban areas. We found 341 vacant units at the time of enumeration which is only 2.7 per cent of the total 12,502 units. Vacant houses will be considered more fully later.

A 5 per cent vacancy is concidered normal on a national average, and the fact that our city is well under normal in this respect shows a need for a continuation of new construction here.

At the enumeration period, March 1, 1939 to July 1, 1939, which is naturally the season for new construction, there were 90 dwelling units under construction. According to the city records on building permits, which only include building within the city limits, there were built 222 dwelling structures with a total of 246 dwelling units during last year. The average per year for the period 1923-1939 is 146 dwelling units, the high in that period was 299 units in 1923 and the low was 20 units in 1932.

Total dwelling units in Mansfield and the suburbs are 12,592. This compared with the total number of dwelling structures—10,225—indicates that there are 2,367 dwelling units in apartments, double houses, duplexes, three family dwellings and the like. All the rest, except those single units combined with business structures, are single family houses standing on individual lots.

Tomorrow: What are our homes made of? How old are our homes?

CENSUS CHIEF SHARPLY RAPS PLAN'S CRITICS

'Impudent' Questions Necessary to Make Survey Success, Director Declares.

(By International News Service)

COLUMBUS — The questions that census opponents brand as "impertinent, impudent and irrelevant" are merely sincere attempts to get at the roots of the difficulties experienced during the past few years, Charles Q. Bloomquist, regional census director, asserted today.

"We take no pleasure in prying into a person's private affairs," he said, "but we must discover the condition of the country and its people if the census is to do any good."

The director rapped sharply at the implication, which he said was circulated by "vote grabbers in an election year," that census enumerators would cause the immediate arrest of those refusing to answer questions.

"No arersts can be made without expreas orders from Washington," he declared. "It is our job to overcome objections by such tact and influence as we can bring to bear."

He pointed out that the penalties facing an enumerator who violates his oath of secrecy are much greater than those provided for refusing to answer questions.

"If a census employe violates his oath, he is subject to a fine of $1,000, a prison term of two years or less, or both," he explained.

Maximum penalty for any person over 18 who refuses to answer questions is $100, 60 days in jail, or both. For wilfully giving false information, however, the maximum penalty is increased to a fine of $500, one year in jail, or both.

"Each individual will be asked 33 questions, while one in every 20 will be asked 17 additional questions," Bloomquist stated. "Most of the queries are as innocuous as saying 'how are you?'"

No More Back or Leg Pains Since She Took "Vendol"

Mansfield housewife declares there is no sign of old aches and agony since taking famous medicine and getting relief from constipation and sluggish kidneys.

MRS. HENRY SCHWARTZ

The famous medicine Vendol grows more popular here in Mansfield as more and more people take it and sales records continue to break, proving one thing—that Vendol is a medicine of real merit and does everything promised. It is not an accident that Vendol helps so many people who have failed to get relief before. Vendol is full-strength according to a carefully developed formula and we invite you to visit the Vendol Man at Central Drug Store and learn how the roots and herbs from which it is mostly made can help you. Mrs. Henry Schwartz of 360 Wayne Street, Mansfield will never regret taking Vendol and here is what she says:

"The past few years have really been bad ones for me. I was constantly troubled with constipation. This condition kept my stomach upset and always seemed out of sorts. There were a great many foods I didn't dare eat for fear of the sourness, gas, acid-risings and cramps that would follow. My nerves were pretty raw too, and if I awakened during the night, I never seemed to get back to sleep. I had more than my share of headaches and dizzy spells, but all these things were really the least of my worries. Why, the aches in my back and legs were so bad that at times I could hardly keep going. Seemed if I bent over I would have to pull up with the help of somepull up with the help olf somekept me awake.

"I'm delighted with the relief Vendol and the Vendol laxative tablets have given me and I wouldn't take anything for it. They relieved my constipation and acted as a diuretic to my kidneys. I believe my bowels are acting better than ever before since I've been taking this great medicine.

"I eat lots of things that used to upset my stomach, my nerves are steady so that I enjoy restful sleep and best of all is that I have won blessed relief from those back and leg pains. I'm proud to recommend such a good medicine as Vendol."

Start today on this famous upbuilding medicine. All druggists sell Vendol and you can get full information about it from the Vendol Man at Central Drug Store, corner Main and 6th Streets.

Informally Speaking...

March 11, 1940.

Lucy, dear:

I'm sorry you couldn't come over this past week-end, because it really was an eventful one in our town. . . . There was the Chi Sigma sorority's annual St. Patrick's dance Saturday night and the Wooster Girls' Chorus concert at the First Presbyterian church last evening. . . . Besides that there were more signs of spring—like a bright sun and blue skies yesterday (and today too), and many youngsters flying kites.

Marianne

All kinds of lovely gowns were in evidence at the dance. I'd like to tell you about all of them, Lucy, they were that pretty—but since I can't, I'll just describe a few for you. . . . Mary Elizabeth Miller looked ever so smart in a black crepe skirt and a black formal sweater trimmed with gold sequins—and her hair was done in curls tied with a perky bow. . . . The skirt and blouse idea seems to be gaining popularity every day—Mary Strater's black crepe skirt was topped with a bright red jacket, trimmed with a touch of white. . . . Eleanor Clingan was wearing a gown of aqua taffeta fashioned with a full skirt, shirred bodice and tiny puffed sleeves. . . . And Betty Hammel complemented her dark beauty with a peach chiffon dress—it was made with a graceful, flowing skirt, and the bodice was quilted—with this she wore a turquoise pendant and slippers.

You'll be interested in knowing that Alma Schlosser, who went to Cleveland about two years ago, is taking an active part in dramatic productions at the Episcopal church in Cleveland Heights. . . . With the portrayal of the leading lady in "The Affair of the Tired Tourist," to be given on April 27 and 28, she will have her second leading role of this season. . . . Perhaps you recall that Alma is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Schlosser and a graduate of Madison high school.

* * * * *

MRS. ROBERT KOCHENDERFER and her 17-months-old daughter, Kay, are back in Minneapolis, Minn., once again, following a three-weeks' visit here with relatives and friends . . . I'm sure you remember Mrs. Kochenderfer, Lucy, as she was Evelyn Weaver before her marriage and taught the second grade at Brinkerhoff school. . . . Robert was on a sales promotion trip into North Dakota and Montana while Evelyn and Kay were visiting here.

* * * * *

Here's news from another of our illustrious college students . . . Kathryn Fighter is one of 43 DePauw university co-eds competing for inclusion in the "Campus Beauties" section of "Mirage," the school yearbook. . . . The six girls whose pictures will appear will be chosen by a vote of the men in the student body. Kathryn, who's the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles F. Fighter, was nominated by her sosority, Delta Delta Delta.

When Mrs. Ray Myers, Mrs. Mabel Sommer, Mrs. Ernest Hammond of Canton and H. E. Morse of Detroit, Mich. feter their father, E. F. Morse, on his 80th birthday yesterday, there were four generations represented at the party. . . . Little nine-weeks-old Robert Larry Myers, who's the son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert M. Myers, completed the fourth generation . . . The dinner party was held at the Ray Myers home on West Fifth street.

WE SEEM to have all kinds of news of Cleveland today, Lucy. Florence MacDonald was there yesterday attending the monthly meeting of the Cleveland chapter of the Ohio Academy of Teachers of Singing—a group of which she was made a member quite recently.

And that's the news of the day. I'll be looking for you or a letter—or both—real soon.

Suits, High Style Notes for Easter Paraders

In spite of the fact temperatures obstinately hover around the freezing mark everybody knows that Easter is just two weeks away, and that eternal feminine question, "What am I going to wear?" is popping up in every conversation. The suit pictured at the left is a perfect find because it can be worn right now, and it will also fill in those days up until summer weather is really with us. It combines a dress and jacket of gray sheer wool spiked with silver costume jewelry and a flower hat. The bolero is back for Easter too. Notice the smart one in the center photo. It's bound in black satin, and is finished with a black cummerbund. The white crepe blouse has silver buttons. Notice the colored enamel beetle that is on the coat lapel, and the crisp stitched white sailor trimmed with red grosgrain ribbon. Shoes will be making headlines as you trip down Park avenue west on March 24. Notice the smart open-toed step-ins worn by the model at the right. Her costume is blue, and her large brimmed hat will be favored by many younger women this season.

Taffeta Hat Recalls Pre-War Fashions

Here's something different in the way of an Easter bonnet for the girls who don't want flowers. Blue, red and green plaid taffeta is draped over a turned-up form to make a hat whose importance recalls prewar days (before 1914). A chicken feather tips it. More taffeta makes a crisp and rustling gilet which writes "spring" against the background of a dark blue wool suit.

Marriage Meddlers

Continuation of "Married Comrades"

I found Lillian and raised my eyebrows in query as I gestured toward my father's door.

"Not a thing doing so far," Harry Underwood said. "We hear their voices occasionally, otherwise we might be tempted to barge in. But they're evidently at a dead-lock."

Lillian drew me down beside her and said "Edith?" questioningly.

"Asleep, finally, after some hot milk and a sedative," I said, and Lillian gave a short laugh that sounded more like a snort.

"You are the forgivingest thing," she said with grudging admiration, and Dicky struck in vehemently.

"Too darn forgiving if you ask me," he said. "You're worn to a frazzle as it is. I'll not have you nursing that neurotic."

"Don't tell me—" Dicky began, evidently bent on continuing the argument, but to my great relief the bell in my father's room sounded an insistent peal, and he sprang at once to answer it.

He came back almost at once and spoke to Harry.

"The Chief wants two guards, and he says you are all to come in now."

"I'll have the guards here in a jiffy," Harry Underwood said, and Lillian and I came into my father's room.

We found him lying back in his chair, near exhaustion from his interview. Across the room from him the man whom I had seen creeping through the underbrush was sullenly slumped on a chair.

My father did not turn his head, and his eyes were fixed upon the opposite wall. But his voice was incisive.

"Look over this man carefully," he said. "I want you to recognize him if you see him again."

"Take this man to the Montauk highway," he directed, "and set him down about midway between Southampton and Easthampton. Take his shackles off before you leave here, and from the moment you leave this room until you release him keep him as inconspicuous as you can."

He turned to the man.

"You are sure you can remember everything I have said to you, and what you are to say and do?" he asked.

"I remember," the man returned sullenly.

"Very good," my father commended. Then his voice was suddenly filled with a great weariness.

"Take him away," he said, and closed his eyes as if he could not longer bear the sight of the shackled man.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

as told by Shepard Barclay

"The Authority on Authorities"

SHOW YOUR DISTRIBUTION

This inaugurates a brief course on the most important fundamentals of bidding and play as practiced by the overwhelming majority of contract bridge masters. It is in these basic things that the average good player makes the most costly mistakes. Each Monday a general subject will be covered. It will pay the ambitious student to paste these in a notebook for repeated reference. We begin with a set of examples to show how an expert, with a fairly strong hand, indicates his exact suit length to his partner.

1— ♠ A K J 2 ♥ K Q J 2 ♦ 3 2 ♣ Q 3 2

2— ♠ A K J 3 2 ♥ K Q J 3 2 ♦ 2 ♣ Q 2

3— ♠ A K J 2 ♥ K Q J 3 2 ♦ 3 2 ♣ Q 2

4— ♠ A K J 3 2 ♥ K Q J 2 ♦ 3 2 ♣ Q 2

5— ♠ A K J 4 3 2 ♥ K Q J 2 ♦ 2 ♣ Q 2

6— ♠ A K J 2 ♥ K Q J 4 3 2 ♦ 2 ♣ Q 2

Presume that in each case the partner responds first with diamonds, then with clubs. On the first hand the bidding would be: 1-Spade, 2-Diamonds; 2-Hearts, 3-Clubs; 3-No Trumps. On No. 2, 2-Hearts, 3-Clubs; 3-Hearts. In the first case, no suit could stand a rebid, none being over four cards. In the second, the rebid of the lower-ranking suit indicates that both are rebiddable at least five cards long, so that three little cards would be ample support for a raise by the partner.

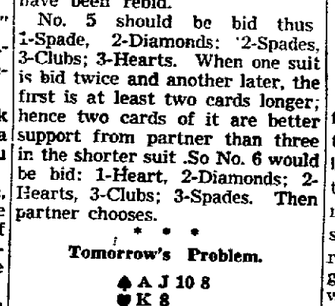
No. 3 should be bid thus: 1-Heart, 2-Diamonds; 2-Spades, 3-Clubs; 3-No Trumps. When the higher suit is bid after the lower, especially with suits of adjoining rank it indicates one more card in the lower.

No. 4 calls for this bidding: 1-Spade, 2-Diamonds, 2-Hearts; 3-Clubs; 3-Spades. Rebidding the higher indicates it is rebiddable, but the lower is not, else it would have been rebid.

No. 5 should be bid thus 1-Spade, 2-Diamonds; 2-Spades, 3-Clubs; 3-Hearts. When one suit is bid twice and another later, the first is at least two cards longer; hence two cards of it are better support from partner than three in the shorter suit .So No. 6 would be bid: 1-Heart, 2-Diamonds; 2-Hearts, 3-Clubs; 3-Spades. Then partner chooses.

* * *

Tomorrow's Problem.



(Dealer: West. North-South vulnerable.)

If South takes the second club trick, drops two trumps, leads a diamond to East's ace, and the latter returns a third club, how should South then play for 4-Hearts?

HOROSCOPE

For Tuesday, March 12.

A difficult day is presaged from the strongly adverse planetary aspects. There are likely to be tenacious obstacles which will take much tact and diplomacy to remove. The stubborn opposition seems to have its source in deep roots, probably in connection with groups or organized bodies, with whom much discrimination should be exercised.

Those whose birthday it is may have to draw on a reserve fund of patience, fortitude and prudence during the year in order to sidestep or vanquish obstinate and difficult situations. Many obstacles and frustrating circumstances arise, probably from old organizations or new and ambitious groups.

A child born on this day may be fairly clever, with deep, subtle and shrewd traits of character, which should enable it to transcend frustrating circumstances by prudence, clear thinking and strategic tactics.

THE AWFUL PRICE YOU PAY FOR BEING NERVOUS

Read These Important Facts!

Quivering nerves can make you old, haggard, cranky—can make your life a nightmare of jealousy, self pity and "the blues."

Often such nervousness is due to female functional disorders. So take famous Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to help calm unstrung nerves and lessen functional "irregularities." For over 60 years relief-giving Pinkham's Compound has helped tens of thousands of grandmothers, mothers and daughters "in time of need."

Pinkham's Compound positively contains no opiates or habit forming ingredients—it is made from nature's own wholesome roots and herbs each with its own special work to perform. One of the most effective "woman's" tonics made! In liquid or handy to carry tablet form (similar formula). Try it!

Dry Hair Needs Oiling

By MME. QUI VIVE

Girls whose locks look as if they had been basted with butter think that fate had it in for them. They low their heads at beauty's wailing wall and render heart-breaking cries. They don't stop to think that the dryheads also have their troubles too. Crisp hair is persistently rebellious, whisps sprouting out here and there. It may break at the touch of the comb. If tresses are dry the scalp is too, a favorable lodging place for dandruff.

Sebaceous glands are on strike or have gone fast asleep. They are not producing the natural oil necessary to keep the scalp in normal condition and the silky shafts alive and glittery. Why that is cannot always be determined Diet may have something to do with it. Regular doses of cod liver oil have been known to act as a corrective measure.

If one is a finicky eater, it is a good plan to check up, see what food elements are lacking. Perhaps some day we'll have special diets for all our beauty ills. Who knows? At any rate, anyone suffering from dry skin should make it a practice to drink plenty of water. Six glasses a day are not too many, though one needs less water is one is a demon tea or coffee drinker.

* * *

Feed oil to a dry scalp and it will lap it up eagerly. Mineral oil is acceptable, is easier to wash out than olive oil, though olive oil is a favorite. In some beauty shops a combination of equal parts of castor oil and alcohol is used.

The best method of application is a medicine dropper. Part the hair here and there. Trickle the oil along the partings. Spread fingers and thumbs over the scalp, give the flesh a brisk mauling, lifting, pinching, rolling. If the oil is hot, it will have a more favorable effect upon crisp hair and flaking scalp.

Next morning have a thorough shampoo, using melted soap, lots of water run through a bath spray. It is impossible to get the hair clean without running water. Three soapings, as many rinsings.

* * *

Dry the hair well, apply brilliantine with an atomizer. Put some on the scalp; it will disappear in no time. Every day, when dressing the hair, pour a little brilliantine in the palm of the hand and oil the teeth of the comb. This practice gives the hair a glossy finish and makes it stay put.

The hair dryer is no help, nor are heavy setting lotions. When getting a permanent wave the timing must be of the briefest, as dry hair kinks up in a hurry. Be fussy about the shampoo medium. A strong soap will make the hair take on the quality of jute. Use the blandest you can find, and melt it.

Wife Preservers

Glass baking dishes which are hard to clean and have grown brown will be helped by soaking in a strong solution of borax and water.

Informally Speaking...

March 11, 1940.

Lucy, dear:

Marianne

I'm sorry you couldn't come over this past week-end, because it really was an eventful one in our town . . . There was the Chi Sigma sorority's annual St. Patrick's dance Saturday night and the Wooster Girls' Chorus concert at the First Presbyterian church last evening. . . . Besides that there were more signs of spring—like a bright sun and blue skies yesterday (and today too), and many youngsters flying kites.

* * * * *

All kinds of lovely gowns were in evidence at the dance. I'd like to tell you about all of them, Lucy, they were that pretty—but since I can't, I'll just describe a few for you. . . . Mary Elizabeth Miller looked ever so smart in a black crepe skirt and a black formal sweater trimmed with gold sequins—and her hair was done in curls tied with a perky bow. . . . The skirt and blouse idea seems to be gaining popularity every day—Mary Strater's black crepe skirt was topped with a bright red jacket, trimmed with a touch of white. . . . Eleanor Clingan was wearing a gown of aqua taffeta fashioned with a full skirt, shirred bodice and tiny puffed sleeves. . . . And Betty Hammel complemented her dark beauty with a peach chiffon dress—it was made with a graceful, flowing skirt, and the bodice was quilted—with this she wore a turquoise pendant and slippers.

* * * * *

You'll be interested in knowing that Alma Schlosser, who went to Cleveland about two years ago, is taking an active part in dramatic productions at the Episcopal church in Cleveland Heights. . . . With the portrayal of the leading lady in "The Affair of the Tired Tourist," to be given on April 27 and 28, she will have her second leading role of this season. . . . Perhaps you recall that Alma is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Schlosser and a graduate of Madison high school.

* * * * *

MRS. ROBERT KOCHENDERFER and her 17-months-old daughter, Kay, are back in Minneapolis, Minn., once again, following a three-weeks' visit here with relatives and friends. . . . I'm sure you remember Mrs. Kochenderfer, Lucy, as she was Evelyn Weaver before her marriage and taught the second grade at Brinkerhoff school. . . . Robert was on a sales promotion trip into North Dakota and Montana while Evelyn and Kay were visiting here.

* * * * *

Here's news from another of our illustrious college students . . . Kathryn Fighter is one of 43 DePauw university co-eds competing for inclusion in the "Campus Beauties" section of "Mirage," the school yearbook. . . . The six girls whose pictures will appear will be chosen by a vote of the men in the student body. Kathryn, who's the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles F. Fighter, was nominated by her sorority, Delta Delta Delta.

* * * * *

When Mrs. Ray Myers, Mrs. Mabel Sommer, Mrs. Ernest Hammond of Canton and H. E. Morse of Detroit, Mich. feter their father, E. F. Morse, on his 80th birthday yesterday, there were four generations represented at the party. . . . Little nine-weeks-old Robert Larry Myers, who's the son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert M. Myers, completed the fourth generation . . . The dinner party was held at the Ray Myers home on West Fifth street.

* * * * *

WE SEEM to have all kinds of news of Cleveland today, Lucy. Florence MacDonald was there yesterday attending the monthly meeting of the Cleveland chapter of the Ohio Academy of Teachers of Singing—a group of which she was made a member quite recently.

* * * * *

And that's the news of the day. I'll be looking for you or a letter—or both—real soon.

Lovingly,

Marianne

Suits, High Style Notes for Easter Paraders

In spite of the fact temperatures obstinately hover around the freezing mark everybody knows that Easter is just two weeks away, and that eternal feminine question, "What am I going to wear?" is popping up in every conversation. The suit pictured at the left is a perfect find because it can be worn right now, and it will also fill in those days up until summer weather is really with us. It combines a dress and jacket of gray sheer wool spiked with silver costume jewelry and a flower hat. The bolero is back for Easter too. Notice the smart one in the center photo. It's bound in black satin, and is finished with a black cummerbund. The white crepe blouse has silver buttons. Notice the colored enamel beetle that is on the coat lapel, and the crisp stitched white sailor trimmed with red grosgrain ribbon. Shoes will be making headlines as you trip down Park avenue west on March 24. Notice the smart open-toed step-ins worn by the model at the right. Her costume is blue, and her large brimmed hat will be favored by many younger women this season.

6 "EXTRA" HELPS quickly relieve DISTRESS of CHILDREN'S COUGHS DUE TO COLDS
DON'T "take chances" with unknown products to relieve discomfort of your child's spasmodic croupy coughs caused by colds. Use "Children's" Musterole! Musterole gives such QUICK relief because it's not "just an ordinary salve." Rub it well on your kiddie's chest, throat and back. It soothes and stimulates surface circulation and helps break up local congestion and pain. Its soothing vapors ease breathing. 40¢. Approved by Good Housekeeping Bureau.
